EIGHT SAILORS LOSE LIVES DURING GALE

Life Boat Crew Saves Twenty-Eight As Vessel Goes Aground Off English Shore; High Seas Thwart Efforts Of Rescuers

MILFORD HAVEN, England, Nov. 26.—Eight members of the crew of the British steamer Molesey lost their lives, today when the vessel ran aground in a gale off Wooltack Point near here.

Members of the Milford Haven lifeboat squad, who has put out in the raging sea to the aid of the distressed vessel, succeeded in saving the other twenty-eight of the Molesey's crew.

The Molesey, a vessel of 3,809 tons, is breaking up under the heavy pounding of the surf. Efforts were made throughout the night by rescuers to reach the stranded ship, but for hours the continued high seas thwarted them. The British destroyer Sea Wolf was sent from Cobh, Ireland, to aid in the rescue, and tugboats from nearby points put out to help in the work.

Early this morning, the Milford Haven lifeboat crew succeeded in reaching the stranded vessel, and the twenty-eight survivors were taken off with great difficulty. The high wind and mountainous seas made use of breeches buoys impossible.

REFUELLING FLIGHT ENDS

METROPOLITAN AIRPORT, Los Angeles, Nov. 26.—Failure to complete a mid-air refueling brought to an end early today the attempt of Bobby Trout and Elinor Smith to lower the world's endurance flight record.

The intrepid girl aces brought their biplane to a safe landing here after being aloft eighteen hours and twenty-eight minutes, far short of their goal of 500 hours of continuous flying.

Poor lights on the "nurse" ship, they explained, made it impossible to effect a refueling contact in the early morning darkness. They announced their intention of making another attempt shortly.

The girls took their plane aloft yesterday at 8:29 a. m.

HOOVER PLEASSED BY MOVES STARTED FOR BETTER BUSINESS

President Surveys Situation; May Form Council

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—President Hoover took a breathing spell today from the business conferences which have occupied him almost exclusively for the past ten days, as he sought ways and means to overcome the depressing effect of a glutted stock market, and to insure a winter of good business.

Figuratively, Mr. Hoover leaned back in his chair and surveyed these accomplishments:

1. Federal and state governments are co-operating in the greatest public buildings and public improvements program ever attempted—a program that will call for the expenditure of well over $1,600,000,000.

2. Railroads have been energized to proceed with a billion dollar program of expansion and equipment improvement.

3. The utilities interests of the country have in the making expansion and improvement projects that will call for the expenditure of almost another billion during the next year.

The menace of strikes and excessive lay-offs has been removed by the promise of industrial leaders that there will be no wage-cutting and of labor leaders that there will be no wage agitation while the business situation is uncertain.

Agriculture, long a sore spot in the general business set-up, gives definite promise of getting more firmly on its feet than at any time since the post-war deflation period. The new farm legislation had a vitalizing and steadying effect, and grain prices are improving.

Money is easy and becoming easier, assuring ample credit facilities for business growth and expansion.

These are the high-lights of what has been accomplished since the acrobatics of the stock market sent shivers of apprehension down the spine of business, and held up to administration officials the bogeyman of "hard times."

There have been other developments contributing to the main currents of renewed confidence, such as the government's slashing $160,000,000 from federal taxes, the government's embarkation upon a $250,000,000 ship-building program, Henry Ford's announcement that he is raising wages instead of retrenching, and others, but they have gone into the general mosaic that Mr. Hoover has attempted to exhibit to the country.

From now on, it is up to business itself to work out its own salvation, in the viewpoint of the administration. For nearly two weeks, every department of government, not to mention the White House, has been concerned with but this single problem of energizing business, and the governmental agencies have done about all they can consistently do. The government can not manufacture the goods nor sell

CHEST CAMPAIGN EXTENDED

RUSSIAN ARMY SWEEPS EASTWARD IN MANCHURIA: CHINESE DEMORALIZED

DEFENDERS TRYING TO ORGANIZE FORCE TO RESIST RED FOE

Soviet Planes Bomb Island Villages; Thousands Fleeing

PEKING, Nov. 26.—A powerful Red army is sweeping eastward into Manchuria driving the demoralized Chinese forces relentlessly before it.

American Consul Hanson today was informed that Russian airplanes have extended their operations as far into Manchuria as Bukhodu, where the leaders of the retreating defenders are attempting to concentrate their forces.

Bukhodu is almost 200 miles to the southeast of the Siberian border and one of the most important cities on the main line of the Chinese eastern railroad.

In order to drop their bombs on the Chinese concentration at Bukhodu, the Russian planes had to span the Kinkhan Mountains, a range running north and south about twenty miles west of that city.

This was facilitated by the capture of Dalainor and Hailar which afforded the Soviet planes a base of operations of Manchurian territory about 100 miles from the Siberian border.

The Russian infantry and artillery are now reported to have advanced within easy marching distance of the foothills of the Kinkhan Mountains.

It is feared here that the Soviet advance will continue along the Chinese Eastern Railway until Tsitsihar and Harbin have been taken.

Reports from Harbin tell of the arrival of thousands of refugees from the area already encompassed by the Soviet forces who brought with them sorrowful accounts of privation and suffering.

Widespread looting and plundering by marauding groups of the retreating Chinese army were reported.

Although President Chiang Kai Shek has reported having completely subjugated the rebels in the central Chinese provinces, it is not believed here that he can afford to swing his full strength northward against the Russian invaders.

As a matter of fact the situation in the vicinity of Canton is still admittedly serious. Several divisions have been dispatched to protect that city against a threatening rebel advance, according to reports.

Some observers here are of the opinion that the Soviet leaders will attack their adversary at the foot of the Kinkhan Mountains and then reopen negotiations for settlement of the C. E. R. dispute. These believe the present Soviet advance is simply a gesture of strength calculated to awe the Chinese into better terms.

SAY M'MANUS JUROR HAS BEEN TALKING; WILL BRING DELAY

Court Investigates; May Be Necessary To Pick Two Jurors

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Another complication developed today in the "jinxed" trial of George A. McManus for the murder of Arnold Rothstein, Broadway gambling king.

One of the jurors is reported to have been gabbling about the Rothstein case in a Greenwich Village night club. If this is true, it is enough to oust him from the jury box, which now harbors only eleven jurors as the court was forced yesterday to excuse "juror number two," Eugene A. Riker, a salesman, on a physician's report that he was incapacitated for further service due to "extreme nervousness."

Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., was expected to question the juror who, it is charged, discussed the case. If the juror admits he has been gabbling it will be necessary to choose two jurors today, instead of one. And when that is done all the testimony taken so far will be read to both of them. The jury has not been sequestered but they were warned not to discuss the case.

SEEK THREE CUNMEN
CANTON, O., Nov. 26.—Akron and Canton police were collaborating today in an effort to run down a trio of gunmen that escaped from Akron police and to find a clue to the same trio who emptied their guns at Antonio Provenzano, 45, in his restaurant here Sunday night.

BATTLE OVER M'CORMICK MILLIONS

Principals in the fight over who shall hold the purse strings of Stanley McCormick, mentally ill son of the late harvester king, snapped at Santa Barbara, Cal., as the trial opened. Mrs. Katherine McCormick, inset, seeks to have Harold F. McCormick, left, and Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine, right, removed as co-guardians of her husband's millions.

FAIRFIELD DOG TRACK OWNERS WILL BE TRIED HERE NEXT MONTH

Marking another effort to test the legality of the "contribution" system of wagering on dog races in the courts, trial dates for three of the principal promoters of the Fairfield Amusement Park, Ltd., arrested on gambling charges growing out of the raid made by authorities on the newly-constructed dog racing plant at Fairfield last July 26, have been assigned by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy.

Jury trial of Charles R. Fay, Middletown, chairman of the board of directors of the partnership organization which financed construction of the $75,000 racing plant, is scheduled to begin in Common Pleas Court December 18.

Trial of C. G. Wantz, Fairfield billiard hall proprietor, one of the principal stockholders of the organization, is set for December 19. G. W. Heinz, Hamilton, builder of the track and its former general manager, will go on trial December 20.

Assignment of dates for the trials was requested by Prosecuting Attorney J. Carl Marshall.

Affidavits charging the trio with "keeping a room for the purpose of selling pools on dog races and with permitting gambling on the premises" were filed by Prosecutor Marshall last July 28. Each promoter pleaded not guilty and furnished bond.

Since that date no effort had been made to bring their cases to trial.

Cases of twenty-four ticket sellers who were also arrested on gambling charges at the time of the raid and who entered not guilty pleas are still pending as is a motion filed last week by Attorney F. L. Johnson, Xenia, counsel for the promoters, demanding the return of $3,279.40 seized by authorities during the raid and since held as cash appearance bond for the twenty-four employees.

A motion for a new trial for the co-ed slayer was filed with the supreme court yesterday and the jurors set December 10 as the date for hearing.

The alleged errors on the part of the common pleas court and the appellate court were listed in the petition-in-error, which, in substance, is a motion for a new trial. The defense attorneys raised several technicalities of law, questioning the constitutionality of the rulings of the lower courts. This case to the federal courts if the state supreme court should confirm the lower courts.

Dr. Snook was convicted by a jury of eleven men and one woman, which deliberated only twenty-eight minutes. He admitted from the witness stand that he slit the throat of Miss Hix with a pocket knife and beat her head with a balldriver hammer.

GLOOM DESCENDS ON CHEST OFFICERS AS COLLECTIONS HALT

Goal Still Beckons; Ask Industries To Conference

Extension of the present Xenia Community fund drive by one day in an effort to reach the chest goal of $10,000 was decided upon Monday afternoon. The campaign will therefore officially end Wednesday night instead of Tuesday night.

The decision is enthusiastically supported by chest workers who are beginning to wonder what the final outcome of the drive will be.

For the first time since the seven-day crusade was inaugurated exactly a week ago Tuesday, genuine disappointment and thick gloom descended upon the fund headquarters Monday.

Confidently expecting to reach the fund quota without too much difficulty, workers have turned in a total of only $6,199.85 after six days of intensive effort. Monday's collections aggregated only $562.45 and $3,900.15 is still needed to fill the chest.

Leaders of the campaign are making no bones of the fact Tuesday that the 1929 drive is a shambles, yet it is pointed out that despite everything the showing to date could have been considerably worse.

Campaign Chairman Edwin Gallows' face wore a worried look as he did those of other chest leaders.

"I have nothing to say," Gallows declared, "beyond what I already have reiterated, namely, that Xenia owes a vote of deep thanks to those few who have shouldered the burden of charity for the majority, and to the faithful workers who have given so liberally of their time and energy."

It is still believed that the quota may be reached but that from now on nothing but straight solicitation, with hundreds of calls, will accomplish the result.

"After a careful check of the individual performances of each team we are certain that this can be done," one worker said.

A step to obtain the advice of industrial heads of the city in an effort to learn of their attitude toward the chest as it now operates was taken Monday after chest officials had appealed to Mayor Kark R. Babb in his official capacity to help out the campaign.

Copies of letters written by Mayor Babb inviting twenty-eight representatives of Xenia industries and financial institutions to meet with him at the City Bldg. at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon for a conference on chest problems were personally delivered to those leaders Tuesday morning by Peter Slagin, motorcycle policeman. The letters read:

"As mayor of the city, the chest drive officials have appealed to you for help and advice in the present chest drive. I feel at loss to know just what steps that I, in my official capacity, might take to aid this worthy cause.

"I realize, of course, that mayors of other cities have been appealed to in like manner and have published statements over their signatures in the daily papers, appealing to the public for financial aid. After giving the matter careful thought it occurs to me that I should be first advised by the industrial heads of the city their attitude toward the chest program.

"Personally, I feel very friendly to the chest for Xenia. I believe that it is probably the most economical and business-like way to handle charity and other activities for better citizenship.

"The question then arises—is this work being handled in a manner that would meet the approval of the community?"

GOVERNMENT HOLDS NATIONAL SERVICE FOR VETERAN SOLON

President Attends Rites For Senator Francis Warren

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The national government, with a state funeral, this afternoon will render final rites for Senator Francis E. Warren in senate chamber, where he served his state and country for three decades.

The president of the United States, his cabinet, the diplomatic corps, the supreme court, hosts of his personal friends from the government service and the family will attend. A funeral oration will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Z. B. Phillips, senate chaplain.

There will be a military touch to the ceremonies, due in part to Senator Warren's military record in the Civil War—a service that won him the coveted congressional medal of honor. Twelve "veterans in blue" will attend as a "guard of honor"—men who served under the same flag with Warren in the war between the states. Then too, the heads of the army, navy and marine corps will be there to pay homage to a soldier, who fought with valor in another day.

The body will be taken to Cheyenne, Wyo., for interment there Thursday. A congressional party, consisting of senators and representatives, will go West for the final service.

The family.—Mrs. Warren, the widow; Frederick E. Warren, his only son, and General John J. Pershing, his son-in-law—will attend the state funeral and accompany the body to its final resting place.

REPORT INCREASE
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 26.—An increase of more than $50,000 in the monthly business of the Ohio Farm Bureau Corporation branches from October, 1928 to October, 1929, has been reported by officials. The corporation is a company owned by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation to serve its members in co-operative purchasing and selling.

CANTON, O., Nov. 26.—James Harvey Robertson, Canton attorney is the Stark County bar association's choice for common pleas judge here to fill the post vacated by the death of Judge Abram W. Agler last week. It was announced today. Robertson's name has been forwarded to Gov. Myers Y. Cook.

THIS "SUCK ER" TOO SMART
Columbus Grocer Fails To "Bite" On Money-Making Machine—"Racket" Too Old.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 26.—"You can fool all of the people some of the time, and some of the people all of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time," says an adage.

Abe Frank, of Brooklyn and points westward, is in jail here today after having found out the truth of that bit of wisdom.

Frank tried to sell a "money-making" machine to Dan T. Khouri, a Syrian grocer. The machine was a complicated device, and the demonstration which Frank gave was convincing.

He oiled the contraption, poured acid into a metal container, ink into another receptacle, and then turned on an electric switch. Dollar bills began to flow from the machine.

It was such a simple operation, explained Frank. The grocer thought it was too simple. He called police, and the latter, after a cursory examination, found that the machine consisted of two false containers. Real money would be inserted secretly in one and paper in the other, but to the observer it would seem that the paper would be made into good currency.

It is an old racket, police declared. They are holding Frank for investigation.

PORTLAND LIMITED DERAILED; FORMER EMPLOYE IS SOUGHT

Young Gunman Lines Up Passengers But Loss Not Known

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 26.—Authorities today organized a widespread man-hunt for a daring young bandit who last night weakened the rails on the Union Pacific line, derailling the west bound Portland Limited, and then proceeded to rob the terror-stricken passengers at the point of a revolver.

Seven coaches hurtled from the tracks as they sped over the weakened place in the track. Sixty passengers were slightly shaken up by the bumping of cars over the tracks which had spread as a result of spikes being removed by the bandit.

The locomotive passed over a rail loosened by the robber without mishap, dragging a plunging train behind it. The seven day coaches and Pullman cars left the rails and bumped along the ties, coming to a stop and leaning against an embankment along the right side of the right-of-way.

Members of the train crew raced both ways down the track, flagging trains which threatened to plow into the derailed cars.

Working alone in the manner of an old-west movie-trailer bandit, the young desperado went rapidly through the train, took what he wanted at hand and disappeared before most of the passengers realized what had happened.

Railroad officials were unable to make a reliable estimate of the loss.

Passengers were reporting losses ranging from fifty-five cents to $150. Climbing aboard the observation car, the young hold up passed up the aisle, commanding all who were awake to "come on, dish it out and shake it up, I'm busy." He spoke in a deep, rough voice, passengers said.

He appeared nervous and in a hurry and disappeared in a few moments. "I've got a wife and two kids at home and the railroad won't give me work," some of the women passengers quoted him as saying.

Meanwhile the engineer uncoupled the locomotive to keep it from being dragged from the rails and reported the robbery.

Sheriff G. H. Romsa and all peace officers in southern Wyoming, northern Colorado and western Kansas joined in a widespread manhunt.

The bandit was described as about 22 years old, five feet seven inches tall, and weighing about 125 pounds. He was thin, had brown eyes and light hair. He wore blue overalls.

Immediately after the wreck and robbery, passengers were taken in to Cheyenne.

Railroad officials pointed out that the bandit's method of wrecking the train and his words that "the railroad won't give me work" indicated that the lone gunman was a former railroad employee.

In wrecking the train he removed the spikes and coupling plates, left the rail in place, in this way failing to disturb the block signal which would have warned the train and crew of trouble.

This allowed the locomotive to cross without being derailed while spreading the track and throwing the following cars to the side of the right-of-way or causing them to bump along the ties.

The presence of mind of two brakemen averted what might have been a terrible tragedy after the derailment.

H. E. Lowell, one of the brakemen, ran down the tracks and flagged an eastbound freight train in time to prevent it from plunging into the derailed Limited.

Russell Grandy, another brakeman, ran back of the derailed Limited and flagged the Gold Coast Limited, running on the westbound track.

The train, the Portland Limited, No. 17, was bound for Portland, Oregon.

Traffic was tied up nearly ten hours, but service was resumed shortly after 5 o'clock this morning and all the passengers continued on west from Cheyenne shortly after that hour.

There was no mail or express car attached to the train.

YOUTH IS KILLED

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Nov. 26.—A 17-year-old high school boy, Clayton Bobbit, is dead here today as the result of a hunting accident yesterday afternoon when a gun in the hands of William Goodwine, a 13-year-old companion, was accidentally discharged, sending a bullet into Bobbit's body. JUNIOR COMMUNITY CHEST DRIVE NEEDS ONLY $18.11 MORE

With contributions of sixty-one more pupils amounting to $2.82 Monday the fund being raised by the Junior Community Chest organization in the Xenia public schools now stands at $66.89 with $18.11 needed to reach the goal of $85.

Birch Bell, junior chairman, announces that a total of 1,719 school children have subscribed to the fund. Three more 100 per cent classes were announced Monday, each pupil of 6A, 4A and 3A at the McKinley grade building, having contributed to the chest.

Six Central High senior high students gave fifty-five cents Monday; eight Central Junior high pupils gave twenty-seven cents; fourteen East senior high students gave $1.16; four East Junior high pupils gave twenty cents; seventeen Lincoln graders gave eleven cents; and one Spring Hill pupil gave a penny.

CONGREGATION HAS ROOFED OLD CHURCH

CLARKSVILLE, O., Nov. 26. — After being lashed and buffeted for many years by severe storms of many Clinton County winters, the roof of the Clarksville Methodist parsonage finally took its last pasting and gave up.

The roof had turned away rains of many summers and guarded ministers from the elements of many seasons. In short, it was worn out.

The only drawback to a new roof was the inevitable strain on the church treasury. The only way out of the dilemma, as the parishioners saw it, was to recover the parsonage themselves.

Led on by their pastor, Rev. Goy E. Tucker, members of the congregation went to work and in a short time the parsonage was glistening with a new roof, and the treasury was saved.

PIONEER LIFE WILL BE SPEECH SUBJECT

"A Girl's Pioneer Life on the Little Miami River" will be described by Mrs. Rachel Wragg, Clifton, one of the most prominent teachers in Greene County sixty years ago, in a paper which she will read at the bi-monthly meeting of the Greene County Historical Society at the Presbyterian Church Saturday afternoon, November 30 at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Wragg will be the principal speaker of the meeting carrying out a plan of the organization to have pioneer residents of the county appear on the society's programs at each meeting.

OLD HOME HOSPITAL DAMAGED BY BLAZE.

Small damage resulted from a fire of undetermined origin which broke out in the office room of the abandoned hospital building at the O. S. and S. O. Home at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday. The blaze originated in the rear of a radiator and is thought to have been due probably to defective wiring. Although the Home has chemical equipment with which to combat fires, the Xenia fire department was summoned as a precautionary measure. Since erection of the new $100,000 hospital at the institution the old hospital building has been unoccupied, the patients having been transferred to the new structure.

AUTO CLUB WILL MOVE; STEELE POAGUE APPOINTED MANAGER

STEELE POAGUE

Offices of the Greene County Auto Club, for the last four years located in the J. H. Dakin Bldg. on N. Detroit St., will be moved January 15, 1930 to a suite of rooms on the second floor of the Steele Bldg. at Main and Detroit Sts., leased from J. D. Steele, owner, according to an announcement made Tuesday.
The club's board of directors authorized the transfer of the offices. One large room and two smaller rooms which will be used as private offices are to be fitted up for occupancy for club purposes.
This decision was reached at the annual meeting of the directors last Friday night when eleven of the fifteen members comprising the board were entertained at dinner at the home of Dilver Belden, club secretary, on Dayton Ave.
Steele Poague, who for the last year has been associated with the club at its offices, has been appointed club manager, a newly created position, for the coming year. Secretary Belden will continue to serve in his present capacity but the pressure of other business has made it necessary for him to give up his former active connection with activities of the organization. He will still have headquarters in the club offices, however.

DILVER BELDEN

Announcement was made that no changes in the club's policy are contemplated and that a continuance of the same efficient service to motorists is assured.
Wilson W. Galloway, Cedarville, has been elected a director of the club to fill a vacancy.
A financial report and a report embracing the activities of the club during the last year was also read at the annual meeting.
Present officers of the club are George Little, president; N. N. Hunter, vice-president; A. E. Faulkner, treasurer; and Dilver Belden, secretary.
Personnel of the board of directors: George Little, N. N. Hunter,

SMALL FINDINGS MADE AGAINST CITY

"Mistakes of the head and not of the heart" are cited by Frank B. Thomas, state examiner, in a report of the yearly examination of records and accounts of Xenia city officers, covering a period from June 19, 1928 to June 29, 1929, filed with Joseph T. Tracy, auditor of state.
In a summary of findings listed in the report, findings for recovery amount to $416.13, findings for adjustment total $296.31 and illegal payments aggregate $55.65. All of the findings are small and technical in nature, it is explained.

AGAIN NAMED ON LIBRARY BOARD

Re-appointment of Mrs. E. N. Shoup for a second term of five years as a member of the board of directors of the Greene County District Library, effective November 23, has been made by County Commissioners. Mrs. Shoup has served one three-year term, which expired recently.
In making the re-appointment, commissioners expressed their appreciation for her work and the interest she has shown while serving on the board.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE POWER OF THE SON—Verily, verily, I say unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God; and they that hear shall live. For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself.—John 5:25, 26.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE

A number of Princeton and Yale graduates and undergraduates, calling themselves the "Ecole de Princeton," are urging the scrapping of the Monroe doctrine. They were over in Europe last summer and talked to several people about the United States and the Monroe doctrine and the League of Nations and a number of other things; and they discovered that the Monroe doctrine is not popular in continental Europe. This, to their obviously internationalized minds, constitutes an irresistible reason why the United States should toss overboard the ballast of its foreign policy.

The pathetic thing about all this is that apparently there are undergraduates in American colleges who have to go to Europe to learn that Europe has never been very enthusiastic over a policy that has prevented it from aggrandizing itself at the expense of the republics in the western hemisphere. The Holy Alliance didn't like it, when it was first enunciated; and present day Europe doesn't like it and never will, as long as it continues to work for greater Pan-American solidarity and therefore to increase our share of a trade Europe covets. All this, we thought, was known to every school boy. The propaganda that certain European countries have carried out in South America for years, with the object of misrepresenting the Monroe doctrine in a way to create ill-feeling against the United States was ample evidence that they would be glad to see it discarded.

The same countries, which believe that what belongs to the Americas is theirs and what's theirs is their own, would also like to see our customs tariff scrapped, our navy sunk, our slender army disbanded, our gates opened wide to unrestricted immigration—and the key to the national treasury handed to them: They would call us a great and noble people if we did them these little favors; but is that any reason why we should lessen by a single brick the political and economic defenses essential to our security as a nation? As long as our neighbors to the south, who share with ourselves the benefits of the Monroe doctrine, are not worried over the "imperialistic" implications read into it by our European rivals, we should worry what Europe thinks about it. The Monroe doctrine has been a boom to this hemisphere and every nation in it for 126 years; and its force cannot safely be lessened, as long as the disposition of Europe to meddle in the affairs of the new world is as active as the movement inaugurated by the "Ecole de Princeton" shows it still to be.

Sinclair says that his prosecution and conviction was political. At least he has the courage of his convictions, when he dares commit lese senate, with the Washington star chamber still in session.

If there is any crying need for wage increase it is among the thousands of girl workers in New York who try to make both ends meet on $15 a week.

Some people seem to think that in saving for a rainy day a person needs only to put aside enough for a movie ticket.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—A waiter in an ornate Harlem dug-out was proudly recounting for the Unprominent Patron, the cost of fitting out such a place.

"Mist'ro Caspah Holstein—de Boss—he spen' twelve thousand bucks alone, on de decorations yuh see round' year."

"Gasper Holstein must be a Princeton man," ventured The Unprominent Patron, indicating the orange-and-black ceiling.

"Maebee so," replied the waiter, "but Ah abius urstan he come fum Bummin'ham."

TAKING NO CHANCES

And while on the subject: The average negro, turned thespian, is a strange mixture of childlike innocence and simplicity. While wholly in love with his profession and its attendant opportunities for ostentation, he nevertheless is not blind to its precarious aspects, and invariably arranges his affairs so that when hard times hit his particular sector of the stage, he has some other line of endeavor to fall back on.

The current Negro play, "Harlem," has a cast of 60, almost every one of whom has a bow with two strings. Ernie Whitman owns three Wild Cat Casinos in the Ebony-and-Ivory Belt. Sammy Davis is a horse trainer. Alonzo Fenderson is manager of prize fighters.

One of the girls manufactures and sells hair tonic and another writes Mammy songs for Tin Pan Alley.

IT DIDN'T WORK

Regally they spat and smoked, and fearfully they lied in the old days on the Bowery. So many tales have been concocted touchin' on an' appertainin' to the wild, weird and wicked life of that notorious thoroughfare that recently, several Forward Looking Lads, with eager eyes of gain, traveled down to the old street, leased likely places there, sprinkled sawdust on the floor, moved in a lot of musty, mellow props, including singing waiters with tin trays and discouraged table towels, and then journeyed uptown to the Starchy Archy Beit, heralding the glad news that the Bowery, in spots, had taken on a recrudescence.

But nothing doing. The Bunch Born Tired rolloversed thither, hoping for a thrill and all they got was a yawn and a strong yearning for the smoky, noisy, plush-lined Sap Salons up on Murderer's Row. The phony fronts on the revived Bowery joints were as obvious as Aunt Emma's store teeth.

It's impossible to bring back even a hint of the old Bowery. Commerce has pitched its tent on the site of McGurk's and Steve Brodie's, which is as it should be.

A WALL STREET STORY

Probably the outstanding mistake made in all the hurly-burly of the late Ticker Tumble was discovered by one large brokerage house where, after three or four days, it was found that they had sold out the same customer twice.

THE WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

CRIME

If the able crime commission which President Hoover appointed can by its report and recommendations teach the dependable people of the United States some things they can do to lessen the amount of crime, the commission may prove to be the most important body of men and women ever set to work by an American president. No one can read the newspaper and not be impressed and appalled by the amount and tragic significance of crime in this country.

There is increasing evidence that there are thousands of persons who appear to be like the majority of their fellow citizens but who are barbarians, out of step with the age in which they live, out of tune with all decent efforts at improvement. Sometimes we find brains gone wrong, mixed with criminality and criminal tendencies. Usually the criminal is under the average of intelligence. It is both a problem of punishment for the sake of present day society and a problem of cure for humanity in the long run.

The disregard of law, the downward revision of moral standards, the looseness of the age all present to the president's crime commission the most serious question ever faced in modern times in this country by men and women.

BRAVE AND FUTILE

Those who participate in great failures are often just as brave and just as worthy of great honor as those who participate in success. While the allied countries won the war against Germany, we know now that the whole effort of war was futile, vastly worse than useless. Those who disagree with that will doubtless admit the war was not worth the terrific price. But those young men who participated in the war—however tragically futile the effort—were just as brave and are just as worthy of honor as though the war had made the foremost contribution ever given to civilization.

SCIENCE UP: WAR OUT

Milkkan, great California scientist, says: "War is in the process of abolishment due to the persistence of science. War will disappear when conditions which permitted its survival disappear."

"Every scientific advance shows ten times as many peaceful uses as those supplying warlike needs. Steel makes bayonets but it also makes ploughshares, railroads tracks, sewing machines, and countless other things related to peace. Science is diverting man's thought from war."

UP TO US

Many deplore the new age with all its machines. Nothing wrong with inventions and machines. It's simply up to man to be smart enough to run them instead of being run by them.

Who's Who and Timely Views

HOME AND CHURCH BLAMED FOR YOUTHELF LAW BREAKERS

By O. MAX GARDNER

Governor of North Carolina (Oliver) Max Gardner was born at Shelby, N. C., March 22, 1882. He studied at the State College of Agriculture and Engineering; was graduated from the University of North Carolina. He has practiced law at Shelby since 1906. From 1911 to 1915 he was a member of the state senate. He was lieutenant governor of North Carolina from 1916 to 1921. In 1929 he took office as governor. He is a Democrat.

Since I have been governor of North Carolina, I have been impressed more and more by the necessity for a better understanding on the part of our people and religious leaders of the spiritual life and needs of the youth of our state.

I am not one of those who believe that the young people of this day and generation are headed for perdition.

For one thing, they face life and its problems with an open-minded sincerity that, I think, wholly commendable. They hate hypocrisy and are intolerant only of intolerance. And they make an honest attempt to think and reason about questions that the youth of my generation accepted, if they accepted them at all, upon the somewhat doubtful and insecure basis of authority.

The youth of today are haunted by a thousand doubts and misgivings. But the earnestness and utter sincerity with which they seek answers to their questions indicate a yearning for the truth and spiritual assurance as poignant as it is sometimes futile.

But there is something wrong somewhere. And at present I am inclined to lay the responsibility squarely at the doors of the home and the church.

We have had an enormous increase in crime and delinquency in this state during the past five years and from the statistics gathered as to this condition, two facts stand out with an emphasis that cannot but challenge attention.

In the first place, 65 per cent of the increase in the population of our state penal and correctional institutions is made up of young white men and boys, there being noted over the same period, a falling off in the number of colored youthful offenders.

In the second place, the vast majority of these young men—George Ross Pou, superintendent of the state's prison, places the estimate at 80 per cent—have never finished the sixth grade and have never regularly attended any church or Sunday school.

IT WON'T BELONG NOW!

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

If women had their wish, even at cradle time, they would ask for beauty. No woman, no matter how ungenerous the gods have been in allotting her portion of beauty, quite gives up her dream of charm and loveliness. And since Yuletide is the time when wishes are supposed to have their realization, beauty should be the gift which you offer your feminine friends.

How can one give beauty? I can almost hear my readers ask. Of course, specifically, I mean all those little accessories which go toward creating beauty and making women good to look at—all the chic vanities, exotic perfumes, enchanting powders and bejeweled atomizers full of delicately scented eau de toilette. Such gifts as these are sure to bring ejaculations of delight from feminine lips.

The proof of the tremendous appeal which such gifts have for women lies in the fact that each year brings an influx of new beauty bijoux, each year's selection is more unique than the one before.

You would think that women have had enough of them, but it seems that they are always eager for more.

Then, of course, women want to be particularly lovely at Christmas time, and their thoughts naturally turn toward beauty salons and special home treatments to remove the signs of fatigue which endless shopping and excessive Yuletide gaieties leave. So that thoughts of beauty and Yuletide go hand in hand.

I only wish to offer one word of caution before I devote some time to Christmas beauty suggestions, and that is this—that there is nothing so uncomplimentary as being presented with powder the wrong shade, or a perfume not appropriate to the personality of the receiver. While it is practically impossible to always be right in your estimates, I think a great deal of incongruity can be eliminated by a little forethought, and I sincerely trust that my articles may be a guide to appropriate gifts for that side of your Christmas list marked "Ladies."

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON. — "Freedom of the seas for food ships is just like freedom of the seas for any other ship, no matter what they may happen to be carrying."

"How can freedom of the seas be guaranteed against violation by any sea power with sufficient strength to violate it?"

"Only by treaty."

"And, oh!" said Chairman Fred A. Britten of the house of representatives' committee on naval affairs, "I'm so skeptical of treaties!"

"A treaty's signatories intend to stick to their bargain all right," continued the Chicago congressman, "at the time they agree to it."

"But when one of them finds itself involved in a life and death struggle, maybe several years later—then what? Perhaps its existence depends on its resort to a policy forbidden by that compact. Is it going down to defeat and national extinction rather than resort to it?"

"Treaty or no treaty."

"It's a blank fool if it does," opined the matter-of-fact naval chairman.

"Preservation is the first law of nature," observed the Illinois representative, "as much for nations as for individuals."

"It supercedes even treaties—consistency—everything."

"Didn't we always stand for freedom of the seas as one of our cardinal principles? You know we did. We fought for it. How we howled when the World War broke out, and the British began to interfere with neutral shipping!"

"Then we went in—and who more anxious for an airtight blockade of Germany than we were? No navy in the world ever showed less regard for freedom of the seas than ours did. We were not particularly hard pressed, either. It was not a last ditch warfare for us, as it was with Europe. We simply changed our views over night because it suited our convenience."

"Only one thing, in my judgment," said the Chicagoan, "can be relied on to prevent a belligerent country from shutting off its enemy's essential supplies—food supplies—and that is sheer inability to shut them off."

"Freedom of the seas will be attained when no nation on earth has an adequate fleet of armed vessels to dominate the oceans."

"A treaty which is followed directly by a scaling down of navies will mean business. Whether or not the sea powers can agree on one remains to be seen next January—but if they do, and the limits are low enough, it will prove effective."

"If war were to be declared, with the belligerents' signatures still damp on a compact binding them to respect the sanctity of one another's food ships," conceded the naval chairman, "they might feel hesitant to break it so promptly."

"This hesitancy would be pretty sure to wear off, however, in a decade or so."

"A reduction or limitation bargain must put the bargainers' sincerity to an immediate test. Moreover, it would be the kind of a test which it would do them no good to repent of later; their fighting machinery would be definitely sacrificed."

"Yes, I know, navies can be rebuilt," nodded the congressman, "but it takes quite a while to rebuild them—eighteen months to a couple of years, at the least calculation."

"War excitement will not keep that long—while two or three or more countries are getting ready to begin fighting."

"Merchant navigation would be perfectly free in the meantime, because it would not be dependent on any nation's promise not to interfere with it. It would have a far better assurance of safety—the prospective belligerents' absolute inability to interfere with it."

The "cow" neckline—a draped treatment—is new and a favorite this season.

The orange sections and steamed dates are a new note in the breakfast menu. If you prefer, however, the dates might be served in the dried form in which you buy them. A family of seven may be served by these dishes.

Today's Recipe

STEAMED DATES—Wash one pound of dates. Place in baking dish, add water to barely cover, put lid on dish and let stand overnight. In morning bring to boil, remove from fire, serve hot or cold.

BAKED RABBIT STEW—One rabbit (Three pounds dressed), one small onion, one tablespoon lemon juice, one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, three tablespoons flour, frying fat. Clean and cut up rabbit as for frying. Put flour, salt and pepper in a paper bag, drop in the rabbit and shake well. Heat fat and brown meat in it, cover with water and simmer until meat leaves bones. Remove from fire, pick out bones, add onion and lemon juice and simmer until somewhat thick. Pour into shallow baking dish, cover top with mashed potatoes and brown in oven. Serve in baking dish.

OATMEAL COOKIES—Two cups sugar, one cup butter, one cup oatmeal, one cup raisins, two eggs, two and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon vanilla. Grind raisins and oatmeal. Combine ingredients in usual manner. Shape bits of dough with fingers, flatten and bake in moderate oven.

MAKE SOME FOR THANKSGIVING

NEW ORLEANS WAFERS

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)—One cup New Orleans molasses, one-half cup shortening, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon soda, one tablespoon water. Bring molasses and shortening to the boiling point. Cool and add other ingredients. Beat well and add enough sifted flour to make a stiff dough. Roll out very thin, cut and bake in a moderate oven (350 F.) 5 to 8 minutes.

Thanksgiving

"AS we gather about the family board today, let us remember the houseless, and homeless, and unfriended, and be sure that we have done something to make sunshine in their hearts, no matter what November gloom may reign without. And as we grasp the hand and look into the eyes of friend and kinsman, be this the greeting we give: 'Brother, whatever else our homes provide today of plenty and good cheer, let us provide things honest in the sight of all men.'"

—Henry C. Potter, D. D.

After every Thanksgiving Day, the National Tuberculosis association starts its Christmas stamp sale. Through the sum accrued through the yearly sale of these stamps, the association is able to carry on its work in the campaign to prevent tuberculosis and to aid destitute sufferers. By buying your quota of these little stamps, you will help "provide all things honest in the sight of men." Let it be a part of your method of expressing your thankfulness this day, and by so doing you will not only be helping to give health, happiness and shelter to the needy tubercular, but you will make your own health, happiness and shelter more secure.

"Dear Doctor: About eight months ago I started on your diet and health book, and now I have reduced from 207 1-2 to 150—a loss of 57 1-2 pounds. Hallelujah! But Dr. Peters, for the sake of these dear, dumb relatives of mine, won't you please write in your column the fact that I'm not going to die! Perhaps they'll believe you! Can a person with such an abundance of pep be dying? I never felt so wonderful in all my life as I do right now."

"I am 30 years old, 5 feet 6 1-2 inches tall, and large boned. What should I weigh if I have reduced too much, is it dangerous to be underweight? I'm just thrilled to death with the results. Most of my friends like me better now and I've started not a few reducing and they are having the same good results. But I can't convince my relatives that I'm very much alive. Yours for Petersizing. MRS. J."

According to the rule of allowing 110 pounds for 5 feet in height (in stocking feet) and 5 1-2 pounds for each inch over that, you are normal weight, for you can add 5 per cent for your heavy framework. Mrs. J.

No, it is not dangerous to be some under the average weight after 30. Not only is it not dangerous, but it is better. Insurance company statistics show that it is conducive to better health and longevity. You may have saved yourself from a lot of serious disorders by getting off that poundage.

Those who need instructions on how to reduce or gain weight may have our pamphlet on the subject by following column rules.

Dear Followers, not only on Thanksgiving Day, but on all days am I happy that I have my work which enables me to give you help in your health problems. And I thank you with all my heart for your beautiful letters, letting me know that I have helped you, and I wish I could thank you all personally.

EDITORS NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose, nor give personal advice. If she considers your questions of general interest, they will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and 2 cents in coin for each; for the pamphlets on "Reducing and Gaining," "The Kidney and Its Excretions," and the "Hygiene of Women," 10 cents in coin (for each) and fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, must be enclosed. (These charges are to cover cost of printing and handling.) Address Dr. Peters, in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: Answers to Mothers.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

What is a "good sport"? Is it a person who does just as everyone wants her to, whether she thinks it right or not? That's the usual definition when one is out with a crowd, is it not?

"Poor sport," "wet blanket," "flat tire," etc., are some of the epithets hurled at those who refuse to do what the crowd does. It takes a mighty tactful person to stand her ground and "get away with it."

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am a young girl in my teens and everyone says I'm good looking. But when I am in company they say I am a poor sport because I don't drink or smoke. They say I'm a piker. And, Virginia, I am trying to find me a boy friend who doesn't drink heavily. Do you think I will succeed? LUCILLE."

I hesitate to publish your letter, Lucille, as I expect an influx of letters asking for your address, and I must remind my readers that addresses are never given through this column. Many boys seem convinced that all girls care for is drinking, smoking, painting their faces and necking. So you see there ARE boys who like girls who are the kind of poor sports and pikers that you are.

The best way to avoid such situations as you describe is to go with people who don't drink or smoke, but if you can't do that, make a joke of your abstinence. Say you're a T. A. (total abstainer), when the drinks are going the rounds, and make an equally flippant remark when you are asked to smoke. A jolly person, with a ready wit, can get away with that sort of thing without causing annoyance. I think, in their hearts, they will respect you a lot more than if you did just what everyone else does.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am a woman 60 years old, been married 34 years. We lived together happily for 16 years, then my husband got in with another man's wife and he has kept that up for years. He has been so untrue to me I feel that I am left all alone in the world. "If I can't trust my husband who shall I trust? With tears in my eyes I go to that good old song, 'Jesus Lover of My Soul,

Let Me to Thy Bosom Fly." That is the only strength I can rely on. I am worried day and night, getting to be a nervous wreck. We two could live together like angels if it were not for that woman. Now, Virginia, what shall I do? What is your advice to me?"

I am afraid I can offer more sympathy than advice. At your time in life you don't want to start out for yourself, even if you did not love your husband. There can be no fear of him going away with her, as she, too, is married.

You are sure of your facts, of course? Have you ever met her? Could you get to know her? I wouldn't imagine if I was in like situation I would go and see the woman and try to find out her side of the case, and what excuse she has. This would be terribly agitating, of course, but if you went, without anger, it might be illuminating.

If nothing of this kind is practical and you would not leave your husband and make other living arrangements, try to forget your grief in doing what you can to lighten others' burdens. Remember that very, very few are without some sorrow, and need friendly help. Maybe in little ways you can be a friend to some other lonely soul who has even less of sunshine in her life than you.

LONESOME LUCY: I realize that young ladies of 14 DO have love affairs, no matter how hard their parents try to convince them they are too young. Don't get tripped on the subject of boys, I beg of you, and don't go with boys of whom your parents do not approve. I imagine, from what you say, that the boy friend is attracted to you, but is ashamed, and I would be as friendly as I could—so as to encourage him, you know—without appearing to be making all the advances. Or are you too overcome when you meet to do more than say "Hello" and blush, too?

THE ONE MINUTE PULPIT

O Lord, I know that the way of man is not in himself; it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps.

O Lord, correct me, but with judgment; not in thine anger, lest thou bring me to nothing.—Jeremiah x, 23, 24.

Peter's Adventures

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

FATHER BEETLE seemed surprised at his young son's actions. "You are a sulky little beetle, Biffer," said he sternly. "I have a good mind to box you. I don't know what your mother would say if she could see you now."

Biffer did have the grace to look a bit ashamed of himself but he muttered under his breath:

"If Cousin Sexton Beetle dines on a fat mouse now and again I don't see how there can be anything so wrong about it. At least I'd like to taste mouse meat. If I didn't like it I could leave it alone, you know, dad."

Father Beetle stared at Biffer for a long moment, then he made up his mind to let his small son learn a lesson from experience.

"Very well, son if there is any here who will go as your guest to Cousin Sexton's feast you shall decide for yourself whether I am right or wrong, and make up your mind whether you will do as Gun Beetles do or will change your customs to those of Cousin Sexton."

"Fine!" shouted Biffer and threw his little hat into the air. "Now shall dine on a new fare. Who will go with me to Cousin Sexton's feast?"

Not a beetle spoke for the honor. Then Grass-Green lazily drawled:

"Count me out, please!" And on after another all the beetles cried—"And me," "and me," "and me!"

When Peter saw how disappointed Biffer looked when not a single Gun Beetle accepted his invitation he said:

"I'll go with you, Biffer, if you like," and then almost regretted his offer. Certainly he didn't care to make a meal on mice, but he wanted to find out who Cousin Sexton was. Besides he had come to like little Biffer and had a notion to make the youngster happy. He succeeded well.

Xenia Central High's bruised and battered Bucs, somewhat heartened by their recent improved showing against Sidney, will renew their ancient football rivalry with Springfield High in the sixteenth annual grid argument between these two schools Thanksgiving Day at Springfield, marking the final game of the season for both teams.

The game will be played Thursday morning, starting at 10 o'clock, at Wittenberg College's stadium.

Records back as far as 1911 reveal that in fifteen games between the two schools Springfield has won eleven times and Xenia three with one contest ending in a tie. Over the period Springfield has piled up 450 points against 108 for Xenia.

Between the years 1911 and 1920 Xenia teams could never beat Springfield but since 1921 each school has won three games and one ended in a tie.

No games were played in 1913, 1917 and 1925.

The Bucs regard Springfield as their most ancient football foe, outside of Wilmington. Last season Xenia triumphed 25 to 13 and the eleven scored an upset by holding Springfield to a 6 to 6 tie.

Xenia-Springfield football scores since 1911 follow:

1911—Xenia 0, Springfield 29.
1912—Xenia 0, Springfield 95.
1913—No game.
1914—Xenia 10, Springfield 15.
1915—Xenia 0, Springfield 47.
1916—Xenia 0, Springfield 36.
1917—No game.
1918—Xenia 7, Springfield 48.
1919—Xenia 0, Springfield 41.
1920—Xenia 0, Springfield 49.
1921—Xenia 34, Springfield 0.
1922—Xenia 20, Springfield 47.
1923—Xenia 0, Springfield 33.
1924—Xenia 6, Springfield 27.
1925—No game.
1926—Xenia 0, Springfield 7.
1927—Xenia 6, Springfield 6.
1928—Xenia 25, Springfield 13.
1929—Xenia 7, Springfield 7.

Collegiate football games scheduled for Thanksgiving Day and next Saturday will bring to a close the 1929 grid season and also the contest conducted among Xenia fans this fall in which the weekly predictions of a fan are published. George "Monk" Herr, the little "big shot" on the Park-O-Light football outfit, is the forecaster this week. Nineteen games carded for Thursday and Saturday are combined in his forecast. Here are his selections:

Thanksgiving Day
Alabama to beat Georgia.
Colgate to beat Brown.
Miami to beat Cincinnati.
Syracuse to beat Columbia.
Dayton to beat Wittenberg.
Tennessee to beat Kentucky.
Kansas Aggies to beat Marquette.
Nebraska to beat Iowa State.
New York U. to beat Carnegie.
Cornell to beat Pennsylvania.
Pittsburgh to beat Penn State.
St. Xavier to beat Haskell.
Wash. and Jeff. to beat W. Virginia.
West. Reserve to beat Case.
Saturday's Games
Boston College to beat Holy Cross.
Georgetown to beat Detroit.
Villanova to beat Temple.
Notre Dame to beat Army.
Dartmouth to beat Navy.

BUCCANEERS YEARN FOR VICTORY; PLAY SPRINGFIELD HIGH

Will Stage Classic In Wittenberg's Big Stadium

By PHIL FRAME

Every effort is being expended this week to whip Xenia Central High's football squad into a winning stride for the annual Thanksgiving Day football classic with Springfield High at Wittenberg College stadium Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

The game will mark the completion of the schedule for both teams and the same combination that started the last game with Sidney will probably cavort onto the field against Springfield.

Xenia will enact the role of determined football David in the Turkey Day clash with Springfield's gridiron Goliath.

The squad is taking only relatively light work this week for the members not definitely out for good are in nearly prime condition for the big battle and Coach Wilson will take no chances on further injuries before Thursday.

Just because they will enter the contest as the underdog, the Bucs will be at their best. Last week Xenia's cause against Sidney was rated as hopeless but the Blue and White eleven showed unsuspected offensive power and was only nosed out by two points, 20 to 18, the margin of two extra points after touchdowns.

Then, too, Xenia has everything to gain and nothing in particular to lose against Springfield. Claiming no championships and already defeated eight times in succession, Xenia is viewed by Springfield as another easy victim.

Seven members of the Buccaneer squad will don grid tugs for the last time Thursday. They are Joe Smittle, John Hurley, Harper Billmyre, John Pulliam, John Cooper, Kenneth Finlay and Theodore Patton. John Schleppi and Minor Monroe, two other senior regulars, will be prevented by injuries from even appearing in uniform.

Springfield has a strong team this season. It lost two games, one to Dayton Silvers and another to Hamilton, both by overwhelming scores, however. Hamilton's victory was by the top-heavy margin of 83 to 0. Against other teams Springfield has looked good.

Xenia, out to make amends for a disastrous season, should be an inspired eleven Thursday and the wonderful exhibition against Sidney is taken as an indication the Bucs have at least come into their own.

Thursday's tilt will be the sixteenth game between the two schools since 1911. Springfield has beaten Xenia eleven times. Xenia has won three times and a tie game was played in 1927. Last season the Bucs were victorious, 25 to 13.

SEND IN VOTES!

XENIA football fans are urged to take advantage of the ballot published in yesterday's GAZETTE and express their choice for All-American football honors this year.

They will thus participate in a national survey in which the real grid fans, instead of a few favored experts, will select the players thought deserving of mention on the mythical team.

Send in your votes to the sport department of this paper not later than Wednesday, and they will be included in the national poll conducted by Central Press Association, Cleveland. Fans all over the country are taking part and the result of their decision in the matter of all-stars will be revealed in this paper later.

BANDIT WOUNDED

CLEVELAND, Nov. 26. — One bandit was believed wounded and another was captured early today when a policeman surprised three robbers in the act of burglarizing a drugstore here.

WITTENBERG WITHDRAWS FROM BUCKEYE LOOP; OTHERS REMAIN

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 26. — The Buckeye Athletic Association, hitherto known as the "Big Six," today had become the "Big Five," following the voluntary withdrawal of Wittenberg College from that football league last night.

The fires of dissension had been smoldering in the conference for more than a year and Wittenberg's resignation did not come as a surprise.

In a statement after the annual meeting of the officials of the B. A. A., at a downtown hotel here last night, Wittenberg college heads charged their action was the result of unjustifiable attacks made against the school by other members of the association.

Only one side of the story was told in the formal utterance. Other "Big Five" universities issued no communication. They simply drew up their 1930 gridiron schedules and went home.

Wittenberg apparently had been contemplating its becoming an "outlaw" molestation aggregation for some time, as a schedule for the school was announced. It follows:

Sept. 24—Centre at Springfield.
Oct. 4—John Carroll at Cleveland.
Oct. 11—Washington and Jefferson at Springfield.
Oct. 18—St. Xavier at Cincinnati.

Nov. 1—Marshall at Huntington.

Nov. 8—Temple at Springfield (tentative).

Nov. 15—Cincinnati (place of game undecided).

Thanksgiving — University of Dayton at Dayton.

Cincinnati is the only B. A. A. university which gave Wittenberg a place on its schedule. It is known that Miami and Denison refused to afford Wittenberg an engagement date as the athletic relations between the two schools and the Springfield college are rather strained. The attitude which Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio University took at the meeting is unknown.

It would seem logical, however, that Ohio Wesleyan sided with Miami and Denison, inasmuch as athletic officials at the Delaware university feared that the conference would go on the rocks.

Ohio University is alleged to have been the school which started the trouble a year ago. An official there issued a statement alleging that a school in the conference had engaged in the practice of subsidizing athletes. Though no names were mentioned, all eyes were turned upon Wittenberg.

An apology was afterward tendered to the Lutherans, but the harm had already been done. The seed of dissension had been sown and it bore fruit recently when reports became rife that Wittenberg would be dropped from the conference.

Wittenberg took the only stand it could. It resigned. The fact that Cincinnati scheduled a game with Wittenberg indicates that the Queen City university was in sympathy with the Lutheran team. This may result eventually in another split considering the hostile attitude of Miami and Denison toward Wittenberg.

Cincinnati is a weak member of the conference now, and it is not much feared by other members on the gridiron. Should the Bearcats put a strong team on the field, however, the feeling of toleration may devolve into further hostilities.

Wittenberg charged that it al-

FORTY-THREE TURN OUT FOR COURT CALL

Answering Assistant Coach Glenn Patterson's initial call for candidates for the 1929-30 season, forty-three boys who aspire to membership on the Central Junior High basketball team indulged in first practice in the school gymnasium Monday afternoon after school hours.

The squad was cut to twenty-one candidates Monday and within the next week will be further reduced to twelve or fifteen. Candidates were put through fundamentals and limbering up exercises. Plenty of material is available in the opinion of Coach Patterson for development of a strong quintet this season.

STOMACH MISERY
QUICKLY ENDED
BY NEW KONJOLA

"It Is Doubtful Whether I Would Have Regained My Health Without This Remedy", Says Happy Man

"I had been troubled, off and on for some time, with a disordered stomach," said Mr. William J. Carpenter, 1819 Booth Street, Toledo, Ohio. "Of late it got so bad that

MR. WILLIAM J. CARPENTER anything I ate caused intense misery. Gas formed in large quantities, which in turn, made me gasp for breath. Because of this condition the other organs became affected and poisonous secretions went throughout my system. "A friend recommended Konjola and insisted that I try it. Very soon after starting with this new medicine I felt results. First my appetite returned and then my strength began to come back. The aches and pains vanished and the poisons were eliminated from my system. Now I can eat as I used to—anything I want. As long as I live I shall be grateful for Konjola."

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. Konjola works quickly and thoroughly at the very root, the fount of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, but to bring new, glorious, and lasting health. Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Gallaher Drug Store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section.

INDIA RECEPTIVE TO CHRIST
MISSIONARY SAYS AT MEETING

"In new India there is but little hatred or opposition against Christians and Christianity as compared with earlier days," said the Rev. Guizardi Lal Lorenzo, district superintendent at Muzaffarpore, India, speaking before a large audience at the morning session of the World Mission of Christianity at the First M. E. Church here Tuesday morning.

The Rev. Mr. Lorenzo was the second speaker on the morning program, following the Rev. Edwin T. Iglehart, missionary to Japan, and he lent a colorful note to the interesting assemblage of mission workers attired in the turbans of his native country. His address was a high light of the all day session.

"There was a time, when, if any high or low caste man or woman was converted to the Christian faith, he would be cut off from his family and caste," said the Rev. Mr. Lorenzo. "They would look down upon him, despise him. In many cases they would beat him and stop all connection and concern with him. In India men have had to pay a bitter price to accept Jesus Christ and to bear His cross. This is no longer true in India, at least not in the sense which your fathers recognized. Moreover, the Christian standard of life, both socially and intellectually, is so much higher than that of Hindus and Mohammedans that Hindus and Mohammedans have a new faith and confidence in the Indian Christian leaders. There is a new desire among educated non-Christians to know about Jesus Christ and to read the Bible. They are eager to know more and more about Him."

"India is ready, and educated Hindus are willing to accept Jesus Christ as one of their incarnations (avatars) or gods. They will accept him as their guru (teacher) and they admire Him and praise Him for the high example He has set before the world. "Therefore, in India, there is a wonderful, a golden opportunity to set forth Jesus Christ as the only Saviour. India is tired and sick of her old gods, incarnations, rivers, hills, trees, animals, religious and superstitious. They followed them

7:30 o'clock and will talk on the "Living Church in Korea." At 8:15 o'clock the Rev. Sam Stagg, missionary to the Philippine Islands and pastor of the Central Students Church at Manila will talk on "The Youth of the Philippines and Their Churches."

Preceding the evening session a banquet will be served at the church and will be open to anyone wishing to attend.

COMMISSIONERS TO MEET WITH COOPER
IN COLUMBUS SOON

County Commissioners and County Surveyor W. J. Davis have been invited to participate in a conference being arranged by Governor Myers V. Cooper at the Southern Hotel in Columbus at 11 a. m. Thursday, December 5, called for the purpose of determining what steps may be immediately undertaken to speed up a program of public improvements in Ohio. The invitation was extended in a telegram received by commissioners Monday from Governor Cooper, who pointed out that President Hoover has asked the governors of various states to co-operate with the federal government in speeding up a public works program to avoid possible unemployment in the country.

In harmony with this request Governor Cooper is inviting county commissioners and county surveyors of each of Ohio's eighty-eight counties to meet in Columbus and confer with him and Robert Waid, state highway director.

The telegram requested the Greene County officials to be prepared to give a complete statement regarding expenditures made for public improvements in this county during the last six months as well as contemplated improvements for the next twelve months.

HARVARD END HURT IN GAME IMPROVES

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 26.—Victor H. Harding, Jr., of Hubbard Woods, Ill. Harvard end who was seriously injured in the Harvard-Yale game was showing steady improvement today at Stillman Infirmary.

Harding, who underwent a blood transfusion operation for a ruptured spleen, was still too weak today to receive friends.

Mrs. Victor H. Harding, Sr., and her daughter visit the patient daily. Several members of the Harvard varsity have undergone blood tests and stand ready to give blood should Harding's condition demand another transfusion.

Dr. T. K. Richard, Harvard's football physician, said today he was highly optimistic over Harding's condition.

THANKSGIVING DAY
UNION SERVICES TO BE HELD WEDNESDAY

Union Thanksgiving services this year for Xenia churches will be held Wednesday evening starting at 7:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian Church, Market and King Sts.

The Rev. Joel R. Lunsford, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will preach the sermon. Mrs. Pearl Armstrong, director of the Presbyterian Vested Choir will direct two Thanksgiving anthems and Mrs. William Anderson, organist, will play special organ numbers appropriate for the season.

The services the night before the holiday is an experiment this year. Previously, when services were held on the morning of Thanksgiving Day, attendance was small because many church-goers spend the holiday in other cities.

The Rev. James P. Lytle, president of the Xenia Ministerial Association, which set the time for the service this year for Wednesday night, believes this gives opportunity for everyone to attend the service as suggested by the President's proclamation.

Special organ numbers announced by Mrs. Anderson for the program

follow: "Thanksgiving Festival Fantasy," "O Praise the Lord to Whom is a Good Thing to Sing Praise Unto Our God," "Song of Autumn" and "Thanksgiving March."

LOWER PRICES AT
OPENING OF MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Lower prices were quoted at the opening of the market today for copper, steel, motor and specialty stock while the utilities and a few other rails moved against the trend and recorded moderate gains as the market swung into action.

Big Doll Given

Can You Solve
the Dolly Puzzle?

Quick! I have a great big baby doll for you. Can you find the hidden faces? Look carefully at the picture of this doll. There are faces hidden in her hat, on her sleeves, and on her dress. See if you can find four (4) faces. Mark each one with an (X) and rush your answer to me.

A Real Beauty

"Baby Peggy" is the biggest, finest doll I have ever given away. She has a beautiful dress and bonnet to match. She has the cutest little booties. And best of all, she talks and she walks, and she is nearly 20 inches tall.

Hurry!

Don't wait a single minute. Find the four hidden faces, send your answer to me, with your name and address below, and I will tell you how you can easily make "Baby Peggy" your own.

AURORA, PLACEMARK TWAIN WAS MINER, SINKS BACK TO DESERT

BISHOP, Cal., Nov. 26.—Aurora, once a thriving mining town where Mark Twain during his early career worked for $1 a week in a mining mill, has sunk back into the desert, abandoned, and forgotten.

In 1869, Aurora, in the Western Nevada mountains near the California line, boasted it had produced $30,000,000 in gold from nearby mines. The gold played out. Miners drifted away. Buildings were deserted and now stand decaying. Desert vegetation grows in the once busy streets.

A surviving landmark is the Aurora saloon, now in ruins, but with its ancient mirrors, long bar and brass rail still standing. "Choice Wines, Liquors, Cigars and Best Brands of Beer" were for sale there says a large sign on the front plate glass window, still intact.

Investigation May Bring Her Freedom

Mrs. Etta Mae Miller, whose life term for violation of the State liquor laws is being investigated by the grand jury at Lansing, Mich. The investigation was made following a report that the liquor found in possession of Mrs. Miller was "planted."

Walls of the court house stand, but little remains of the town bank except the vault which often contained millions in gold.

In his book "Roughing It" Mark Twain said that while working for $1 a week he asked for a raise.

The foreman asked Twain what he thought his "salary" should be. Twain replied it would take $37,000 a week to keep him in Aurora.

So Twain left. Now all the other citizens are gone. Only the coyotes remain keeping their lonely vigil in streets that once knew activity twenty-four hours a day.

BISHOP PAUL JONES SPEAKS AT ANTIOCH

"Scientific study of human behavior has not lessened individual responsibility, rather, it has strengthened it and turned it into new channels. We are increasingly responsible for others as well as for ourselves."

This view of the effect of forces that determine human conduct was set before the students of Antioch College Monday by Bishop Paul Jones, of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Southern Ohio.

Bishop Jones emphasized the fallacy in the thinking of determinists who go to the extreme of denying all responsibility for their conduct by asserting that everything they do is determined by their social experiences. "The very importance of social experiences makes it necessary for us to assume a share of responsibility in

NEARLY HUNDRED BUT STILL FARMS

CARDINGTON, O., Nov. 26.—At the end of a long lane from a seldom traveled road near here, lives David Jones who is 98 years old today and is still farming.

Today is Jones' birthday and with his celebration he recalls Ohio in its primitive days.

Jones was born in Oneida County, New York, in 1831 and while still a young man, left his native state for Ohio. After a few years at Zanesville came the Civil War and for three years he served with Company C, 88th Ohio Regiment.

He was captain of the guard of eight men who watched over Lincoln's body while it rested at Camp Chase.

In 1867 Jones moved to Morrow County and bought a farm known as "the land of sour ground and bitter water." He drained the soil, filtered the water and tilled his acres successfully.

Jones is in excellent health at 98. He points out that he has shunned tea, coffee, meat and tobacco.

PRISONER BREAKS STATE GAME LAWS

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Nov. 26.—Game Warden L. A. Paxton, New Lexington, contemplates a trip into the Ohio Penitentiary brick plant and charge them with violating the game laws.

Recently the game protector said he accidentally ran across an old fashioned rabbit trap on the prison grounds. Searching further, the warden claims to have found a dozen more.

Not only is it unlawful to trap rabbits at any time, Paxton points out, but the prisoners were trapping out of season.

SATISFYING AN APPETITE

Ohio Youth Raises Much Of State's Turkey Supply For Thanksgiving Tables.

By Central Press
NEW LEXINGTON, O., Nov. 26.—Arthur Metzger, 24-year-old Junction City youth, will furnish much of the turkey supply for the festive tables of Central Ohio at Thanksgiving this year.

In 1925 young Metzger was graduated from school. He turned from his books much as many other young men of today do, with the query, "What shall I do for a living?"

Arthur's mother, Mrs. John Metzger, had been in the habit of raising a half dozen turkeys to supply the home table each year. It gave her son an idea.

The first year Metzger raised only enough turkeys to pay expenses. This year he branched out on a heavier scale, buying one-day-old baby turkeys from different hatcheries throughout the country. Today he has a flock of 1,100 of his turkey-ships that would make any big produce dealer sit up all night to bid on.

Metzger has 600 gobblers that will average 20 pounds each, and 500 hens that will tip the scales at 12½ pounds each.

Metzger has approximately $10,000 worth of turkeys on his little farm, which is located one mile south of Junction City. A heavy armed guard is maintained day and night as a precaution against marauding poultry thieves.

This young man's idea will net him this year as much profit as the average 500 acre-farm in any section of this county.

The birds are all very tame. Hundreds will follow a stranger all over the little farm, but beware of the buttons on your coat, money in your pocket, stogies in your mouth if you want to keep them. They grab for everything. The writer of this article, who was in the lost several buttons that may be found in your Thanksgiving feast.

For 3 minutes everything depends on motor oil

ENGINEERS have found that 60% of all engine wear occurs in the first three minutes of running!—A hazard which greatly increases in winter.

To assure safety to vital engine parts at the zero hour of starting, Shell engineers have developed an oil with a low pour point—an oil which flows freely in cold weather.

The constantly increasing thousands who use Shell Motor Oil don't have to run the risk of changing to a lighter-bodied oil in winter. They can and do drive with complete confidence that lubrication starts when the engine starts.

Shell crude comes from hand-picked wells in Shell's vast producing fields. The new Shell-developed, low-temperature refining process prepares the crude for use. And before it reaches you, it passes 259 tests which check and certify the rich, unvarying quality of every quart.

That quality assures every essential of a modern motor oil for year-round service: Low Pour Point, Ideal Body at All Operating Temperatures, Low Carbon Content, and Non-Fouling Carbon.

STOP AT THE SIGN OF THE SHELL

—And let the Shell Lubrication Chart be your guide. Courteous salesmen await you at the familiar yellow and red service stations. Convenient everywhere.

To the man who uses his car all winter—we say: "Try Shell for 30 days"

One cold morning's experience will give you a new conception of how easy winter starting can be. A few days' trial will show you how quickly lubrication can be achieved when the mercury is trying to curl up and disappear.

400 "Extra Dry" Shell Gasoline is made-to-order for winter use. Starts quick. Burns completely because it's "dry" gasoline. Ought to cost more, but it doesn't.

SHELL PETROLEUM CORPORATION

NOT ALL ARE CURED

"The Home of Thrift"

It is said there is some good in all evil. The train of tragedies issuing from the stock market has taught hundreds of thousands that trying to beat each other, trying to get something for nothing, without creating anything of value, is a vain pursuit, and that it is better to stick to the sober ways of getting on in the world.

But all are not permanently cured, for most people are born gamblers. Some of those who won will want to try again, and many of those who lost will hope to recover their losses. These will continue to furnish work for the shearers and produce occasional flares in the market as it continues to further gradually settle to where it belongs. It is not there yet.

Don't be deceived! There are literally hundreds of millions of dollars now available to trained operators, skilled investors, and investment trusts, ready and watching, and if there are any "bargains" in stocks, they will not be allowed to reach you. Keep your 6% and Safety and you will have more money in the long run.

ARGENTINE SPEAKS AT LUTHER LEAGUE MEETING AT CHURCH

"Protestant missions have contributed no small share in the evangelizing of the South American people," declared Senor James Soler, Buenos Aires, Argentina, at a meeting of the Luther League of the First Lutheran Church Sunday night.

Senor Soler is a midler in Hamma Divinity School of Wittenberg College, Springfield, and is studying to become a missionary. He will return to the Argentine in June, 1931, upon the completion of his theological course.

The young Argentine presented his message in the form of a journey to the various South American countries and spoke especially of the religious progress in their capitals. He related how Christianity, including all denominations, is gradually turning the people away from ancient superstition to the new and better ways of living. From his talk it would be inferred that religious efforts have in most cases preceded commercial plans in the Latin American republics.

To bring his message home and to make it more personal to American Luther Leaguers, Soler told of the activities of that young people's organization in Buenos Aires. The Luther League program of activity in the Argentine includes four different phases. They are: religious, educational, cultural, and physical. No Luther League there can be successful without the frequent use of these types of meetings or certain combinations from them, he said.

At the conclusion of his address, the visiting theologian conducted an open forum, and answered several questions propounded to him by members of the League. Soler handles the English language nicely. He was employed in the Frigidaire plant in Dayton as a translator of Spanish and Argentine commercial correspondence during the past summer. He is a member of the Cosmopolitan Club of Wittenberg, which presented a play in McKinley School here several weeks ago.

HOOVER PLEASED BY MOVES STARTED FOR BETTER BUSINESS

them; it can only point the way.

This task, Mr. Hoover considers now to have been largely accomplished. There are some odds and ends and details to be cleaned up, but in the main the job is finished, and the responsibility for business has been placed on the shoulders of business.

There is but one more conference of a major character in view. Next week, a few days after the new congress assembles in regular session, several hundred outstanding leaders of industry and business are coming to Washington at the instance of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce to consider the establishment of a permanent "business council" the purpose of which is to act as an advisory body in the carrying on of the policies initiated by the president. Julius Barnes is acting as Mr. Hoover's chief lieutenant in this undertaking, but the president himself will open the parley and outline his ideas of its future activity.

The depressing effect on American shipyards caused by further disarmament moves has been considerably nullified by assurance of greatly increased commercial ship building.

The interdepartmental board, composed of cabinet officers, has decided to let mail contracts which call for the construction of about forty new ships, totaling some 460,000 tons, and costing around $250,000,000. This means busy shipyards and considerable business for the steel industry.

All in all, administration leaders are fairly well content with what has been accomplished, and with the immediate outlook for the future. So, presumably, are the business leaders of the country. At least, they have gone away from Washington daily during the past ten days optimistic and cheerful. If they have had tears they have not shed them in the immediate vicinity of the White House.

GLOOM DESCENDS ON CHEST OFFICERS AS COLLECTIONS HALT

of the industrial heads of our city? "Following this thought, I am taking the liberty of inviting men who employ large numbers of persons and men who are at the head of our financial institutions, to meet me in conference Tuesday afternoon, November 26 at 4 o'clock, in my office at the City Building. I would be very grateful indeed if each industry and financial institution would send a member of its organization to advise with me, in order that I may act intelligently in the appeal which has been made to me by the chest drive officials.

I, therefore, appeal to your civic interest to be at this meeting."

Very truly yours,

KARL R. BABB,

Mayor.

FINED, SENTENCED ON DRIVING CHARGE

A fine of $100 and costs, sentence of thirty days in the County Jail and suspension of his driving rights for six months was the penalty imposed Tuesday morning by Probate Judge S. C. Wright upon a guilty plea to a charge of operating an auto while intoxicated.

Green was arrested Saturday night by L. A. Davis, county road patrolman, after his car crashed into that of August McNeel, Xenia, at Trebebe. No one was injured in the collision.

COTTON STOCKINGS
ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY
Author of "THE FLAT TIRE"

READ THIS FIRST:

Rosalie March, seventeen, works at the hosiery counter of a department store, a position she secured through the kindness of Kenessa DuBarry, an actress, who took pity on her when Rosalie's mother died. Rosalie is adored by her landlady, Mother Murphy, and little Tim O'Hara, the corner newsie. Alberto Martino, the store detective, threatens Rosalie with arrest when he catches her with a pair of silk stockings she has taken until payday. He prevails upon her to hide some suitcases in her room. Roy Clarke Andrews, nephew of the store owner, asks Rosalie to marry him. Martino's gang kidnaps Roy, and when Rosalie threatens to expose him, Martino is mysteriously shot. The police arrive.

Of course, Rosalie is accused of the murder, and is taken to the station to be questioned.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXII

"What is your name?"

"Rosalie March."

"Where do you live?"

"For the past few weeks I have been living at Mother Murphy's boarding house on Race Street."

"How old are you?"

"Seventeen."

"Parents living?"

"No."

"Are you sure?"

"My father died when I was a baby and my mother died three months ago."

Rosalie had been answering questions in a routine manner—and the officer had scarcely looked up from his book. But when she told him of her mother he looked up and studied the grave, pale face before him.

He sighed, as though he, too, might be a little tired, and went on.

"Why did you come to Philadelphia? Have you people here?"

"I have no one. I came because I had to work. We had no money."

"When did you meet this man Martino?"

"The—the day I went to work in the store."

"Did he try to make a date with you? Did he get fresh with you and try to take you out?"

Rosalie hesitated. That would be a good way out. She could make them believe he had tried to marry her. Could she bring herself to tell them the truth? How she had taken the stockings and how they had fallen from her dress—and about his visit to her and his threat and her promises?

She dropped her head then—and lied.

"Yes, he said I'd lose my job if I didn't go out with him."

She looked so innocent that he believed her. Three detectives stood by, all chewing at big cigars—and did not take their eyes from her face.

"Did you go out with him or did you refuse?"

"I—I refused at first. But he made me go. He—he said he would kill me."

"What were your relations to him then? Did—he did you live with him?"

Rosalie knew then that she should not have lied. Her voice rose in terror.

"Oh! No! Don't ask me any more questions—please!"

He went on mercilessly.

"You lived with him and he gave you money and clothes. Is that it?"

She looked down and began to cry. Then they believed that she had.

"Come on," he urged her, impatiently, "that's nothing to blubber about now. How much money did he give you?"

That made her angry.

"I—I've never taken money from a man in my life. Do you think I'm—I'm a bad woman?"

One of the detectives laughed. Coming from a girl that had just killed a man on one of the most questionable streets in Philadelphia that was funny. She was putting the old ritz gag over on them!

Rosalie was a puzzle to all of them. There was divided opinion. Either she was very shrewd and very experienced or she was too innocent to be real. Girls did not shoot their men friends with such utter nonchalance unless they had a very good reason. How could she possibly have become involved so deeply in less than three months? The kid had been stepping pretty high. No doubt about it.

"How long have you been carrying a gun?" she was asked then.

"I—I never saw one of the terrible things handy until three or four days ago. I didn't carry it. I kept it under my pillow."

Rosalie racked her brain for an excuse for the gun. How could she get out of it?

"You expected to kill this bird, then?"

"I—I got it because I was on a fire escape—and I was afraid someone would climb up while I was asleep."

"Where did you get it?"

"I—I found it."

Rosalie was not a very good liar. She hadn't had enough practice. They all laughed and she knew she had made a big mistake again. The officer began to reason with her.

"You better tell the truth, now. It's much easier. Everything you say will be used against you."

You've killed your boy friend for some reason—and we want to know what it was—

"He—he wasn't my boy friend. My boy friend—"

She caught herself just in time. But she had given herself away. She had practically admitted to them then that she did have a boy friend.

"Go on, sister. Who was your boy friend—and what has he got to do with this?"

"Nothing! I have no boy friend, I tell you!"

Oh, if there was only someone to tell her what to do and say. If she only knew for sure what had happened to Roy. They would never believe her if she told them she had been engaged to him before he disappeared. She might do him more harm by talking.

And she could not tell them she was a thief. If she did—and Roy came back and found it out—he might hate her. She couldn't stand that.

Rosalie was so weary with the strain and so confused in her mind that she began to cry again.

"Take her to headquarters," she heard through the pounding in her brain. "Maybe the murder squad can get her to open up."

BIG SISTER—On the High Road.

By LESLIE FORGRAVE

John McCormack, America's most popular tenor, is in Hollywood where he is making his first sound picture for Fox and has initiated himself into the movie fraternity by buying an expensive auto which he frequently drives on the left side of the street, as they do in Ireland. He has had to sing himself out of two tickets.

As a youth McCormack departed Ireland for London with a letter of introduction to a stage producer. The stage producer offered the youthful tenor a ten dollar a week job in the chorus.

Hannen Swaffer, English critic, says of McCormack:

"McCormack had a hard time of it in Bloomsbury. When he went to see 'The Vicar of Wakefield,' in which he'd lost the part of Squire Thornhill because of his Irish accent, he had no money with which to buy a program. Yet, before America discovered him, he became one of the worst actors ever known, even on the Coven Garden stage, where he sang leading parts.

"He used to stand with his back to the audience and look just a funny, fat man. Then America took his Irish smile to her heart and during the war McCormack made speeches against England in the United States and became an American as a protest against his British citizenship.

My article on McCormack stopped his first concert in 1920—he had already cancelled his Australian tour because the audience sang 'God Save the King'—but before his return, four years later, we had all relented. Ever since, McCormack has been a London idol, as much as 650 pounds (approximately $3,250) for a few songs at the Mayfair Hotel and becoming, with the exception of Chapplin, Paderewski and Krieger, the only artist who can fill the Albert Hall. In America he has drawn over 2,000 pounds (about $10,000) in a night.

That proves it is quite a long cry from a ten dollar a week job in a chorus to a talkie film that will net him a quarter of a million dollars.

Considering the opportunities to extend one's audience and to be amply paid in addition, it is a wonder more of the concert singers have not been persuaded to make talking pictures. With movie ingenuity, it can be engineered so that the singer does the maximum of singing with the minimum of acting so that any shortcomings along this line would not greatly handicap the film, especially if the voice numbers were good.

Dorothy Dalton, star of Morris Gest's spectacle, "Aphrodite" and of many Famous Players and Thomas Ince films is coming back to the films. She will join her husband, Arthur Hammerstein in Hollywood soon and will play in his first movie production, "Hide 66". She deserted the celluloid after her marriage April 22, 1924 in Chicago.

Dorothy Dalton was born in Chicago and made her stage debut in stock in Terre Haute, Ind. After several stock seasons she was in vaudeville, part of the time with her former husband, Lew Cody, from whom she was divorced. Her first film was "The Disciple" for Thomas Ince and after her "Aphrodite" success in 1919 she signed a five-year contract with Famous Players-Lasky at a salary that ranked among the five largest paid film stars at that time. She was with Valentino in "Moran of the Lady Letty" and with Conrad Nagel in "The Fool's Paradise". Probably her most successful film was "Flame of the Yukon", released in 1917. Her last was with Jack Holt in "The Lone Wolf", released May 11, 1924.

LONE BANDIT ROBBS TRAIN: 60 HURT

EIGHT SAILORS LOSE LIVES DURING GALE

Life Boat Crew Saves Twenty-Eight As Vessel Goes Aground Off English Shore; High Seas Thwart Efforts Of Rescuers

MILFORD HAVEN, England, Nov. 26.—Eight members of the crew of the British steamer Molesey lost their lives, today when the vessel ran aground in a gale off Wooltack Point near here.

Members of the Milford Haven lifeboat squad, who has put out in the raging sea to the aid of the distressed vessel, succeeded in saving the other twenty-eight of the Molesey's crew.

The Molesey, a vessel of 3,809 tons, is breaking up under the heavy pounding of the surf. Efforts were made throughout the night by rescuers to reach the stranded ship, but for hours the continued high seas thwarted them. The British destroyer Sea Wolf was sent from Cobh, Ireland, to aid in the rescue, and tugboats from nearby points put out to help in the work. Early this morning, the Milford Haven lifeboat crew succeeded in reaching the stranded vessel, and the twenty-eight survivors were taken off with great difficulty. The high wind and mountainous seas made use of breeches buoys impossible.

REFUELLING FLIGHT ENDS

METROPOLITAN AIRPORT, Los Angeles, Nov. 26.—Failure to complete a mid-air refueling brought to an end early today the attempt of Bobby Trout and Ellnor Smith to lower the world's endurance flight record.

The intrepid girl aces brought their biplane to a safe landing here after being aloft eighteen hours and twenty-eight minutes, far short of their goal of 500 hours of continuous flying.

Poor lights on the "nurse" ship, they explained, made it impossible to effect a refueling contact in the early morning darkness. They announced their intention of making another attempt shortly.

The girls took their plane aloft yesterday at 8:29 a. m.

HOOVER PLEASED BY MOVES STARTED FOR BETTER BUSINESS

President Surveys Situation; May Form Council

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—President Hoover took a breathing spell today from the business conferences which have occupied him almost exclusively for the past ten days, as he sought ways and means to overcome the depressing effect of a giddy stock market, and to insure a winter of good business.

Figuratively, Mr. Hoover leaned back in his chair and surveyed these accomplishments:

1. Federal and state governments are co-operating in the greatest public buildings and public improvements program ever attempted—a program that will call for the expenditure of well over $1,000,000,000.

2. Railroads have been energized to proceed with a billion dollar program of expansion and equipment improvement.

3. The utilities interests of the country have in the making expansion and improvement program of almost another billion during the next year.

4. The menace of strikes and excessive pay-offs has been removed by the promise of industrial leaders that there will be no wage-cutting and of labor leaders that there will be no wage agitation while the business situation is uncertain.

5. Agriculture, long a sore spot in the general business set-up, has definite promise of getting over firmly on its feet than at any time since the post-war depression period. The new farm legislation had a vitalizing and leading effect, and grain prices are improving.

6. Money is easy and becoming easier, assuring ample credit facilities for business growth and expansion.

These are the high-lights of what has been accomplished since the proboscis of the stock market sent shivers of apprehension down the spine of business, and held up to administration officials the bogeyman of "hard times."

There have been other developments contributing to the main picture of renewed confidence, such as the government's slashing $60,000,000 from federal taxes, the government's embarkation upon a $50,000,000 ship-building program, Henry Ford's announcement that he is raising wages instead of retrenching, and others, but they are gone into the general mosaic of Mr. Hoover's attempted to shift to the country.

From now on, it is up to business itself to work out its own salvation. In the viewpoint of the administration. For nearly two weeks, every department of government, from the White House down, has been concerned with but this single problem of energizing business, and the governmental agencies have done about all they can consistently do. The government cannot manufacture the goods nor sell

PLAN TO INDEMNIFY INNOCENT VICTIMS OF DRY LAW BULLETS

Congresswoman Kahn To Push Measure To Aid Families

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The first big gun in the annual congressional battle over prohibition will be fired upon the reconvening of congress next week by a woman—Mrs. Florence Kahn, Republican congresswoman of California—when she demands approval of a bill to indemnify families of innocent victims of dry bullets.

Mrs. Kahn will open her campaign for the legislation with a demand for hearings by the house judiciary committee and will carry the offensive to the house floor with an appeal for support.

Having voiced her opinion that the government should pay damages to families of innocent victims of "dry bullets" following the killing of Henry Virkula in northern Minnesota by customs officers several months ago, Mrs. Kahn has returned for the new session more determined than ever to press her bill to enactment.

"My proposed bill would give $25,000 damages to the dependents of innocent victims of federal prohibition enforcement officers, who have already killed scores of people without the slightest excuse," said Mrs. Kahn.

"I am not seeking to protect the law-breaker or his family, however sorry I may be for the plight which families of law breakers often must face. But I do think that a great government should expect its officers to exercise common sense in their duties, and the government should be ready to make amends to the families of persons who are made destitute by the failure of officers to conduct themselves as officers should."

"There have been killings since the adjournment of the regular session of congress last summer, and the belief that the situation will continue in the future makes me more determined than ever to push my bill."

Mrs. Kahn divulged she has received many abusive letters since her proposal first became known. Many persons who have written her are under the erroneous impression that she seeks to protect law-breakers, she said, adding that her sole aim is the aid of the families of innocent victims. She has received many letters commending her for her proposal.

Suggestions have been received, she said, that the bill also provide for indemnification of families of prohibition officers slain while enforcing the law. They have not been included, she said, because they suffer in the line of duty, and, like the law-breaker, know what chances they are taking when they accept government service.

Mrs. Kahn is expected to receive aid from others of the "feminine bloc" of the house. Three members of the bloc are strongly opposed to prohibition, three favor it, and the seventh member is non-committal. Mrs. Kahn, Mrs. Norton (D) of New Jersey and Mrs. Pratt (R) are "wet." Mrs. Oldfield (D) of Arkansas, Mrs. Owen (D) of Florida and Mrs. McCormick (D) of Illinois are regarded as "dry" while Mrs. Rogers (R) of Massachusetts has contented herself with supporting law enforcement.

TWO KILLED WHEN BARRACKS EXPLODES

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Defective wiring was believed today to have caused the explosion and fire which razed a subway workers' barracks at Long Island City, N. Y., last night, resulting in the death of two workmen and serious injury to thirty others.

Twelve of the injured were believed to be dying today. The fatalities and most of the injuries occurred as the 200 workmen fought madly in an effort to escape from the second floor of the blazing building.

CHEST CAMPAIGN EXTENDED

RUSSIAN ARMY SWEEPS EASTWARD IN MANCHURIA: CHINESE DEMORALIZED

DEFENDERS TRYING TO ORGANIZE FORCE TO RESIST RED FOE

Soviet Planes Bomb Inland Villages; Thousands Fleeing

PEKING, Nov. 26.—A powerful Red army is sweeping eastward into Manchuria driving the demoralized Chinese forces relentlessly before it.

American Consul Hanson today was informed that Russian airplanes have extended their operations as far into Manchuria as Bukhodu, where the leaders of the retreating defenders are attempting to concentrate their forces.

Bukhodu is almost 200 miles to the southeast of the Siberian border and one of the most important cities on the main line of the Chinese eastern railroad.

In order to drop their bombs on the Chinese concentration at Bukhodu, the Russian planes had to span the Kinkhan Mountains, a range running north and south about twenty miles west of that city.

This was facilitated by the capture of Dalainor and Hailar which afforded the Soviet planes a base of operations of Manchurian territory about 100 miles from the Siberian border.

The Russian infantry and artillery are now reported to have advanced within easy marching distance of the foothills of the Kinkhan Mountains.

It is feared here that the Soviet advance will continue along the Chinese Eastern Railway until Tselishar and Harbin have been taken.

Reports from Harbin tell of the arrival of thousands of refugees from the area already encompassed by the Soviet forces who brought with them sorrowful accounts of privation and suffering.

Widespread looting and plundering by marauding groups of the retreating Chinese army were reported.

Although President Chiang Kai Shek has reported having completely subjugated the rebels in the central Chinese provinces, it is not believed here that he can afford to swing his full strength northward against the Russian invaders.

As a matter of fact the situation in the vicinity of Canton is still admittedly serious. Several divisions have been dispatched to protect that city against a threatening rebel advance, according to reports.

Some observers here are of the opinion that the Soviet forces will halt their advance at the foot of the Kinkhan Mountains and then report negotiations for settlement of the C. E. R. dispute. These believe the present Soviet advance is simply a gesture of strength calculated to awe the Chinese into better terms.

SAY M'MANUS JUROR HAS BEEN TALKING; WILL BRING DELAY

Court Investigates; May Be Necessary To Pick Two Jurors

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Another complication developed today in the "jinxed" trial of George A. McManus for the murder of Arnold Rothstein, Broadway gambling king.

One of the jurors is reported to have been gabbling about the Rothstein case in a Greenwich Village night club. If this is true, it is enough to oust him from the jury box which now harbors only eleven jurors as the court was forced yesterday to excuse "juror number two," Eugene A. Riker, a salesman, on a physician's report that he was incapacitated for further service due to "extreme nervousness."

FAIRFIELD DOG TRACK OWNERS WILL BE TRIED HERE NEXT MONTH

Marking another effort to test the legality of the "contribution" system of wagering on dog races in the courts, trial dates for three of the principal promoters of the Fairfield Amusement Park, Ltd., arrested on gambling charges growing out of the raid made by authorities on the newly constructed dog racing plant at Fairfield last July 26, have been assigned by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy.

Jury trial of Charles R. Fay, Middletown, chairman of the board of directors of the partnership organization which financed construction of the $75,000 racing plant, is scheduled to begin in Common Pleas Court December 18.

Trial of C. G. Wauz, Fairfield billiard hall proprietor, one of the principal stockholders of the organization, is set for December 19. W. Heintz, Hamilton, builder of the track and its former general manager, will go on trial December 20.

Assignment of dates for the trials was requested by Prosecuting Attorney J. Carl Marshall. Affidavits charging the trio with "keeping a room for the purpose of selling pools on dog races and with permitting gambling on the premises" were filed by Prosecutor Marshall last July 28. Each promoter pleaded not guilty and turned bond.

Since that date no effort had been made to bring their cases to trial.

Cases of twenty-four ticket sellers who were also arrested on gambling charges at the time of the raid and who entered not guilty pleas are still pending as is a motion filed last week by Attorney F. L. Johnson, Xenia, counsel for the promoters, demanding the return of $3,279.40 seized by authorities during the raid and since held as cash appearance bond for the twenty-four employees.

DR. SNOOK IS ALLOWED STAY OF EXECUTION

Supreme Court Gives Him Stay Until December 20

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 26.—Dr. James Howard Snook, the bald, spectacled ex-college professor who slew Miss Theora A. Hix, his attractive co-ed sweetheart, and who was scheduled to die in the electric chair at the Ohio State Penitentiary Friday night as a result of that first-degree murder, today had been granted a stay of execution until December 20 by the Ohio Supreme Court.

A motion for a new trial for the co-ed slayer was filed with the supreme court yesterday and the jurists set December 10 as the date for hearing.

The alleged errors on the part of the common pleas court and the appellate court were listed in the petition-in-error, which, in substance, is a motion for a new trial.

The defense attorneys raised several technicalities of law, questioning the constitutionality of the rulings of the lower courts. This was seen as a move to gain entrance to the federal courts if the state supreme court should confirm the lower courts.

Dr. Snook was convicted by a jury of eleven men and one woman, which deliberated only twenty-eight minutes. He admitted from the witness stand that he slit the throat of Miss Hix with a pocket knife and beat her head with a balance hammer.

GLOOM DESCENDS ON CHEST OFFICERS AS COLLECTIONS HALT

Goal Still Beckons; Ask Industries To Conference

Extension of the present Xenia Community fund drive by one day in an effort to reach the chest goal of $10,000 was decided upon Monday afternoon. The campaign will therefore officially end Wednesday night instead of Tuesday night.

The decision is enthusiastically supported by chest workers who are beginning to wonder what the final outcome of the drive will be.

For the first time since the seven-day crusade was inaugurated exactly a week ago Tuesday, genuine disappointment and thick gloom descended upon the fund headquarters Monday.

Confidently expecting to reach the fund quota without too much difficulty, workers have turned in a total of only $6,199.85 after six days of intensive effort. Monday's collections aggregated only $562.45 and $3,800.15 is still needed to fill the chest.

Leaders of the campaign are making no bones of the fact Tuesday that the 1929 drive is a sick horse, yet it is pointed out that despite everything the showing to date could have been considerably worse.

Campaign Chairman Edwin Gallo-way's face wore a worried look as he did those of other chest leaders.

"I have nothing to say," Gallo-way declared, "beyond what I already have reiterated; namely, that Xenia owes a vote of deep thanks to those few who have shouldered the burden of charity for the majority, and to the faithful workers who have given so liberally of their time and energy."

It is still believed that the quota may be reached but that from now on nothing but straight solicitation, with hundreds of calls, will accomplish the result.

"After a careful check of the individual performances of each team we are certain that this can be done," one worker said.

A step to obtain the advice of industrial heads of the city in an effort to learn what their attitude is toward the chest as it now operates was taken Monday after chest officials had appealed to Mayor Mark R. Babb in his official capacity to help out the campaign.

Copies of letters written by Mayor Babb inviting twenty-eight representatives of Xenia industries and financial institutions to meet with him at the City Bldg. at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon for a conference on chest problems were personally delivered to those leaders Tuesday morning by Peter Shagin, motorcycle policeman. The letters read:

"As mayor of the city, the chest drive officials have appealed to me for help and advice in the present chest drive. I feel at loss to know just what steps that I, in my official capacity, might take to aid this worthy cause."

"I realize, of course, that mayors of other cities have been appealed to in like manner and have published statements over their signatures in the daily papers, appealing to the public for financial aid. After giving the matter careful thought it occurs to me that I should be first advised by the industrial heads of the city their attitude toward the chest program."

"Personally, I feel very friendly to the chest for Xenia. I believe that it is probably the most economical and business-like way to handle charity and other activities for better citizenship."

"The question then arises—is this work being handled in a manner that would meet the approval

HE SUES AIMEE

Aimee Semple McPherson is "not at all worried" and will make talking pictures despite a suit for $324,500 filed by Cromwell Ormsby, above, one of her ex-attorneys, she has announced. The suit alleges that Ormsby held a contract to receive one-third of the profits in a talking picture enterprise.

GOVERNMENT HOLDS NATIONAL SERVICE FOR VETERAN SOLO

President Attends Rites For Senator Francis Warren

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The national government, with a state funeral, this afternoon will render the final rites for Senator Francis E. Warren in senate chamber, where he served his state and country for three decades.

The president of the United States, his cabinet, the diplomatic corps, the supreme court, hosts of his personal friends from the government service and the family will attend. A funeral oration will be delivered by Rev. Dr. Z. B. Phillips, senate chaplain.

There will be a military touch to the ceremonies, due in part to Senator Warren's military record in the Civil War—a service that won him the coveted congressional medal of honor. Twelve "veterans in blue" will attend as a "guard of honor"—men who served under the same flag with Warren in the war between the states. Then too, the heads of the army, navy and marine corps will be there to pay homage to a soldier, who fought with valor in another day.

The body will be taken to Cheyenne, Wyo., for interment there Thursday. A congressional party, consisting of senators and representatives, will go West for the final service.

The family—Mrs. Warren, the widow; Frederick E. Warren, his only son, and General John J. Pershing, his son-in-law—will attend the state funeral and accompany the body to its final resting place.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 26.—An increase of more than $5,000 in the monthly business of the Ohio Farm Bureau Corporation branches from October, 1928 to October, 1929, has been reported by officials. The corporation is a company owned by the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation to serve its members in co-operative purchasing and selling.

Columbus Grocer Fails To "Bite" On Money-Making Machine—"Racket" Too Old.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 26.—"You can fool all of the people some of the time, and some of the people all of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time," says an adage.

Abe Frank, of Brooklyn and points westward, is in jail here today after having found out the truth of that bit of wisdom.

Frank tried to sell a "money-making" machine to Dan T. Khouury, a Syrian grocer. The machine was a complicated device, and the demonstration which Frank gave was convincing.

PORTLAND LIMITED DERAILED; FORMER EMPLOYEE IS SOUGHT

Young Gunman Lines Up, Passengers But Loss Not Known

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 26.—Authorities today organized a widespread man-hunt for a daring young bandit who last night weakened the rails on the Union Pacific line, derauling the west bound Portland Limited, and then proceeded to rob the terror-stricken passengers at the point of a revolver.

Seven coaches hurtled from the tracks as they sped over the weakened place in the track. Sixty passengers were slightly shaken up by the bumping of cars over the tracks which had spread as a result of spikes being removed by the bandit.

The locomotive passed over a rail loosened by the robber without mishap, dragging a plunging train behind it. The seven day coaches and Pullman cars left the rails and bumped along the ties, coming to a stop and leaning against an embankment along the right side of the right-of-way.

Members of the train crew raced both ways down the track, flagging trains which threatened to plow into the derailed cars.

Working alone in the manner of an old-west movie-thriller bandit, the young desperado went rapidly through the train, took what was at hand and disappeared before most of the passengers realized what had happened.

Railroad officials were unable to make a reliable estimate of the loot.

Passengers were reporting losses ranging from fifty-five cents to $150. Climbing aboard the observation car, the young hold up passed up the aisle, commanding all who were awake to "come on, dish it out and shake it up, I'm busy." He spoke in a deep, rough voice, passengers said.

He appeared nervous and in a hurry and disappeared in a few moments. "I've got a wife and two kids at home and the railroad won't give me work," some of the women passengers quoted him as saying.

Meanwhile the engineer uncoupled the locomotive to keep it from being dragged from the rails and reported the robbery.

Sheriff G. H. Remsa and all peace officers in southern Wyoming, northern Colorado and western Kansas joined in a widespread manhunt.

The bandit was described as about 25 years old, five feet seven inches tall, and weighing about 125 pounds. He was thin, had brown eyes and light hair. He wore blue overalls.

Immediately after the wreck and robbery, passengers were taken into Cheyenne.

Railroad officials pointed out that the bandit's method of wrecking the train and his words that "the railroad won't give me work" indicated that the lone gunman was a former railroad employee removed the spikes and coupling plates, but left the rail in place, in this way failing to disturb the block signal which would have warned the train and crew of trouble.

This allowed the locomotive to cross without being derailed while spreading the track and throwing the following cars to the side of the right-of-way or causing them to bump along the ties.

The presence of mind of two brakemen averted what might have been a terrible tragedy after the derailment.

H. E. Lowell, one of the brakemen, ran down the tracks and flagged an eastbound freight train in time to prevent it from plunging into the derailed limited.

Russell Grandy, another brakeman, ran back of the derailed limited and flagged the Gold Coast Limited, running on the westbound track.

The train, the Portland Limited, No. 17, was bound for Portland, Oregon.

Traffic was tied up nearly ten hours, but service was resumed shortly after 5 o'clock this morning and all the passengers continued on west from Cheyenne shortly after that hour.

There was no mail or express car attached to the train.

YOUTH IS KILLED

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Nov. 26.—A 17-year-old high school boy, Clayton Bobbitt, is dead here today as the result of a hunting accident yesterday afternoon when a gun in the hands of William Goodwine, a 13-year-old companion, was accidentally discharged, sending a bullet into Bobbitt's body. The youth died instantly.

JUNIOR COMMUNITY CHEST DRIVE NEEDS ONLY $18.11 MORE

With contributions of sixty-one more pupils amounting to $2.82 Monday the fund being raised by the Junior Community Chest organization in the Xenia public schools now stands at $66.89 with $18.11 needed to reach the goal of $85.

Birch Bell, junior chairman, announces that a total of 1,719 school children have subscribed to the fund. Three more 100 per cent classes were announced Monday, each pupil of 6A, 4A and 3A at the McKinley grade building, having contributed to the chest.

Six Central High senior high students gave fifty-five cents Monday; eight Central Junior high pupils gave twenty-seven cents; fourteen East senior high students gave $1.16; four East Junior high pupils gave twenty cents; seventeen Lincoln graders gave eleven cents; and one Spring Hill pupil gave a penny.

CONGREGATION HAS ROOFED OLD CHURCH

CLARKSVILLE, O., Nov. 26. — After being lashed and buffeted for many years by severe storms of many Clinton County winters, the roof of the Clarksville Methodist parsonage finally took its last passing and gave up.

The roof had turned away rains of many summers and guarded ministers from the elements of many seasons. In short, it was worn out.

The only drawback to a new roof was the inevitable strain on the church treasury. The only way out of the dilemma, as the parishioners saw it, was to recover the parsonage themselves.

Led on by their pastor, Rev. Goy E. Tucker, members of the congregation went to work and in a short time the parsonage was glistening with a new roof, and the treasury was saved.

PIONEER LIFE WILL BE SPEECH SUBJECT

"A Girl's Pioneer Life on the Little Miami River" will be described by Mrs. Rachel Wragg, Clifton, one of the most prominent teachers in Greene County sixty years ago, in a paper which she will read at the bi-monthly meeting of the Greene County Historical Society at the Presbyterian Church Saturday afternoon, November 30 at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Wragg will be the principal speaker of the meeting carrying out a plan of the organization to have pioneer residents of the county appear on the society's programs at each meeting.

OLD HOME HOSPITAL DAMAGED BY BLAZE

Small damage resulted from a fire of undetermined origin which broke out in the office room of the abandoned hospital building at the O. S. and S. O. Home at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday. The blaze originated in the rear of a radiator and is thought to have been due probably to defective wiring. Although the Home has chemical equipment with which to combat fires, the Xenia fire department was summoned as a precautionary measure. Since erection of the new $100,000 hospital at the institution the old hospital building has been unoccupied, the patients having been transferred to the new structure.

AUTO CLUB WILL MOVE; STEELE POAGUE APPOINTED MANAGER

STEELE POAGUE

DILVER BELDEN

Offices of the Greene County Auto Club, for the last four years located in the J. H. Dakin Bldg. on N. Detroit St., will be moved January 15, 1930 to a suite of rooms on the second floor of the Steele Bldg. at Main and Detroit Sts., leased from J. D. Steele, owner, according to an announcement made Tuesday.

The club's board of directors authorized the transfer of the offices. One large room and two smaller rooms which will be used as private offices are to be fitted up for occupancy for club purposes.

This decision was reached at the annual meeting of the directors last Friday night when eleven of the fifteen members comprising the board were entertained at dinner at the home of Dilver Belden, club secretary, on Dayton Ave.

Steele Poague, who for the last year has been associated with the club at its offices, has been appointed club manager, a newly created position, for the coming year. Secretary Belden will continue to serve in his present capacity but the pressure of other business has made it necessary for him to give up his former active connection with activities of the organization. He will still have head quarters in the club offices, however.

Announcement was made that no changes in the club's policy are contemplated and that a continuance of the same efficient service to autoists is assured.

Wilson W. Galloway, Cedarville, has been elected a director of the club to fill a vacancy.

A financial report and a report embracing the activities of the club during the last year was also read at the annual meeting.

Present officers of the club are George Little, president; N. N. Hunter, vice-president; A. E. Faulkner, treasurer; and Dilver Belden, secretary.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE POWER OF THE SON—Verily, verily, I say unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God; and they that hear shall live. For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself.—John 5:25, 26.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE

A number of Princeton and Yale graduates and undergraduates, calling themselves the "Ecole de Princeton," are urging the scrapping of the Monroe doctrine. They were over in Europe last summer and talked to several people about the United States and the Monroe doctrine and the League of Nations and a number of other things; and they discovered that the Monroe doctrine is not popular in continental Europe. This, to their obviously internationalized minds, constitutes an irresistible reason why the United States should toss overboard the ballast of its foreign policy.

The pathetic thing about all this is that apparently there are undergraduates in American colleges who have to go to Europe to learn that Europe has never been very enthusiastic over a policy that has prevented it from aggrandizing itself at the expense of the republics in the western hemisphere. The Holy Alliance didn't like it, when it was first enunciated; and present day Europe doesn't like it and never will, as long as it continues to work for greater Pan-American solidarity and therefore to increase our share of a trade Europe covets. All this, we thought, was known to every school boy. The propaganda that certain European countries have carried out in South America for years, with the object of misrepresenting the Monroe doctrine in a way to create ill-feeling against the United States was ample evidence that they would be glad to see it discarded.

The same countries, which believe that what belongs to the Americas is theirs and what's theirs is their own, would also like to see our customs tariff scrapped, our navy sunk, our slender army disbanded, our gates opened wide to unrestricted immigration—and the key to the national treasury handed to them. They would call us a great and noble people if we did them these little favors; but is that any reason why we should lessen by a single brick the political and economic defenses essential to our security as a nation? As long as our neighbors to the south, who share with ourselves the benefits of the Monroe doctrine, are not worried over the "imperialistic" implications read into it by our European rivals, we should worry what Europe thinks about it. The Monroe doctrine has been a boom to this hemisphere and every nation in it for 126 years; and its force cannot safely be lessened, as long as the disposition of Europe to meddle in the affairs of the new world is as active as the movement inaugurated by the "Ecole de Princeton" shows it still to be.

Sinclair says that his prosecution and conviction was political. At least he has the courage of his convictions, when he dares commit lese senate, with the Washington star chamber still in session.

If there is any crying need for wage increase it is among the thousands of girl workers in New York who try to make both ends meet on $15 a week.

Some people seem to think that in saving for a rainy day a person needs only to put aside enough for a movie ticket.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—A waiter in an ornate Harlem dug-out was proudly recounting for the Unprominent Patron, the cost of fitting out such a place.

"Mist'ro Caspach Holstein—de Boss—he spen' twelve thousand bucks alone, on de decorations yuh see 'roun' yeah."

"Casper Holstein must be a Princeton man," ventured the Unprominent Patron, indicating the orange-and-black ceiling.

"Maebee so," replied the waiter, "but Ah abius urstan he come fum Bumminnam."

TAKING NO CHANCES

And while on the subject:

The average negro, turned thesplan, is a strange mixture of childlike innocence and simplicity.

While wholly in love with his profession and its attendant opportunities for ostentation, he nevertheless is not blind to its precarious aspects, and invariably arranges his affairs so that when hard times hit his particular sector of the stage, he has some other line of endeavor to fall back on.

The current Negro play, "Harlem," has a cast of 60, almost every one of whom has a bow with two strings. Ernie Whitman owns three Wild Out Casinos in the Ebony-and-Ivory Belt. Sammy Davis is a horse trainer. Alonzo Penderson is manager of prize fighters. One of the girls manufactures and sells hair tonic and another writes Mammy songs for Tin Pan Alley.

THE WAY of the WORLD

CRIME

If the able crime commission which President Hoover appointed can by its report and recommendations teach the dependable people of the United States some things they can do to lessen the amount of crime, the commission may prove to be the most important body of men and women ever set to work by an American president. No one can read the newspaper and not be impressed and appalled by the amount and tragic significance of crime in this country.

There is increasing evidence that there are thousands of persons who appear to be like the majority of their fellow citizens but who are barbarians, out of step with the age in which they live, out of tune with all decent efforts at improvement. Sometimes we find brains gone wrong, mixed with criminality and criminal tendencies. Usually the criminal is under the average of intelligence. It is both a problem of punishment for the sake of present day society and a problem of cure for humanity in the long run. The disregard of law, the downward revision of moral standards, the looseness of the age all present to the president's crime commission the most serious question ever faced in modern times in this country by men and women.

BRAVE AND FUTILE

Those who participate in great failures are often just as brave and just as worthy of great honor as those who participate in success. While the allied countries won the war against Germany, we know now that the whole effort of war was futile, vastly worse than useless. Those who disagree with that will doubtless admit the war was not worth the terrific price. But those young men who participated in the war—however tragically futile the effort—were just as brave and are just as worthy of honor as though the war had made the foremost contribution ever given to civilization.

SCIENCE UP; WAR OUT

Millikan, great California scientist, says: "War is in the process of abolishment due to the persistence of science. War will disappear when conditions which permitted its survival disappear."

"Every scientific advance shows ten times as many peaceful uses as those supplying warlike needs. Steel makes bayonets but it also makes ploughshares, railroad tracks, sewing machines, and countless other things related to peace. Science is diverting man's thought from war."

UP TO US

Many deplore the new age with all its machines. Nothing wrong with inventions and machines. It's simply up to man to be smart enough to run them instead of being run by them.

HOME AND CHURCH BLAMED FOR YOUTHFUL LAW BREAKERS

By O. MAX GARDNER
Governor of North Carolina
"Oliver Max Gardner was born at Shelby, N. C., March 22, 1882. He studied at the State College of Agriculture and Engineering; was graduated from the University of North Carolina. He has practiced law at Shelby since 1906. From 1911 to 1915 he was a member of the state senate. He was lieutenant governor of North Carolina from 1916 to 1921. In 1929 he took office as governor. He is a Democrat."

Since I have been governor of North Carolina, I have been impressed more and more by the necessity for a better understanding on the part of our people and religious leaders of the spiritual life and needs of the youth of our state.

I am not one of those who believe that the young people of this day and generation are headed for perdition.

For one thing, they face life and its problems with an open-minded sincerity that is, I think, wholly commendable. They are intolerant of hypocrisy and are intolerant only of intolerance. And they make an honest attempt to think and reason about questions that the youth of my generation accepted, if they accepted them at all, upon the somewhat doubtful and insecure basis of authority.

The youth of today are haunted by a thousand doubts and misgivings. But the earnestness and utter sincerity with which they seek answers to their questions indicate a yearning for the truth and spiritual assurance as poignant as it is sometimes futile.

But there is something wrong somewhere. And at present I am inclined to lay the responsibility squarely at the doors of the home and the church.

We have had an enormous increase in crime and delinquency in this state during the past five years and from the statistics gathered as to this condition, two facts stand out with an emphasis that cannot but challenge attention.

In the first place, 65 per cent of the increase in the population of our state penal and correctional institutions is made up of young white men and boys, there being noted over the same period, a falling off in the number of colored youthful offenders.

In the second place, the vast majority of these young men—George Ross Pou, superintendent of the state's prison, places the estimate at 80 per cent—have never finished the sixth grade and have never regularly attended any church or Sunday school.

In other words, our prisons are being overrun by a class of criminals hitherto comparatively rare in this state and who, so far as their home and religious training is concerned, have been permitted to approach maturity almost as pagans.

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

If women had their wish, even at cradle time, they would ask for beauty. No woman, no matter how ungenerous the gods have been in allotting her portion of beauty, quite gives up her dream of charm and loveliness. And since Yuletide is the time when wishes are supposed to have their realization, beauty should be the gift which you offer your feminine friends.

How can one give beauty? I can almost hear my readers ask. Of course, specifically, I mean all those little accessories which go toward creating beauty and making women good to look at—all the chic vanities, exotic perfumes, enchanting powders and bejeweled atomizers full of delicately scented eau de toilette. Such gifts as these are sure to bring ejaculations of delight from feminine lips.

The proof of the tremendous appeal which such gifts have for women lies in the fact that each year brings an influx of new beauty bibles, each year's selection is more unique than the one before. You would think that women have had enough of them, but it seems that they are always eager for more.

Then, of course, women want to be particularly lovely at Christmas time, and their thoughts naturally turn toward beauty salons and special home treatments to remove the signs of fatigue which endless shopping and excessive Yuletide gaieties leave. So that thoughts of beauty and Yuletide go hand in hand.

I only wish to offer one word of caution before I devote some time to Christmas beauty suggestions, and that is this—that there is nothing so uncomplimentary as being presented with powder the wrong shade, or a perfume not appropriate to the personality of the receiver. While it is practically impossible to always be right in your estimates, I think a great deal of incongruity can be eliminated by a little forethought, and I sincerely trust that my articles may be a guide to appropriate gifts for that side of your Christmas list marked "Ladies."

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON. — "Freedom of the seas for food ships is just like freedom of the seas for any other ship, no matter what they may happen to be carrying."

"How can freedom of the seas be guaranteed against violation by any sea power with sufficient strength to violate it?"

"Only by treaty."

"And, oh!" said Chairman Fred A. Britten of the house of representatives' committee on naval affairs, "I'm so skeptical of treaties!"

"A treaty's signatories intend to stick to their bargain all right," continued the Chicago congressman, "at the time they agree to it."

"But when one of them finds itself involved in a life and death struggle, maybe several years later—then what? Perhaps its existence depends on its resort to a policy forbidden by that compact. Is it going down to defeat and national extinction rather than resort to it?—treaty or no treaty."

"It's a blank fool if it does," opined the matter-of-fact naval chairman.

"Preservation is the first law of nature," observed the Illinois representative, "as much for nations as for individuals."

"It supersedes even treaties—consistency—everything."

"Didn't we always stand for freedom of the seas as one of our cardinal principles? You know we did. We fought for it. How we howled when the World War broke out, and the British began to interfere with neutral shipping!"

"Then we went in—and who more anxious for an airtight blockade of Germany than we were? No navy in the world ever showed less regard for freedom of the seas than ours did. We were not particularly hard pressed, either. It was not a last ditch warfare for us, as it was with Europe. We simply changed our views over night because it suited our convenience."

"Only one thing, in my judgment," said the Chicagoan, "can be relied on to prevent a belligerent country from shutting off its enemy's essential supplies—food supplies or any other sort of supplies—and that is sheer inability to shut them off."

"Freedom of the seas will be attained when no nation on earth has an adequate fleet of armed vessels to dominate the oceans."

"A treaty which is followed directly by a scaling down of navies will mean business. Whether or not the sea powers can agree on one remains to be seen next January—but if they do, and the limits are low enough, it will prove effective."

"If war were to be declared, with the belligerents' signatures still damp on a compact binding them to respect the sanctity of one another's food ships," conceded the naval chairman, "they might feel hesitant to break it so promptly."

"This hesitancy would be pretty sure to wear off, however, in a decade or so."

"A reduction or limitation bargain must put the bargainers' sincerity to an immediate test. Moreover, it would be the kind of a test which it would do them no good to repent of later; their fighting machinery would be definitely sacrificed."

"Yes, I know, navies can be rebuilt," nodded the congressman, "but it takes quite a while to rebuild them—eighteen months to a couple of years, at the least calculation."

"War excitement will not keep that long—while two or three or more countries are getting ready to begin fighting."

"Merchant navigation would be perfectly free in the meantime, because it would not be dependent on any nation's promise not to interfere with it. It would have a far better assurance of safety—the prospective belligerents' absolute inability to interfere with it."

"The 'cow' neckline—a draped treatment—is new and a favorite this season."

The orange sections and steamed dates are a new note in the breakfast menu. If you prefer, however, the dates might be served in the dried form in which you buy them. A family of seven may be served by these dishes.

Today's Recipe

STEAMED DATES—Wash one pound of dates. Place in baking dish, add water to barely cover, put lid on dish and let stand overnight. In morning bring to boil, remove from fire, serve hot or cold.

BAKED RABBIT STEW—One rabbit (Three pounds dressed), one small onion, one tablespoon lemon juice, one teaspoon salt, one-tenth teaspoon pepper, three tablespoons flour, frying fat, Clean and cut up rabbit as for frying. Put flour, salt and pepper in a paper bag, drop in the rabbit and shake well. Heat fat and brown meat in it, cover with water and simmer until meat leaves bones. Remove from fire, pick out bones, add onion and lemon juice and simmer until somewhat thick. Pour into shallow baking dish, cover top with mashed potatoes and brown in oven. Serve in baking dish.

OATMEAL COOKIES—Two cups sugar, one cup butter, one cup oatmeal, one cup raisins, two eggs, two and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon vanilla. Grind raisins and oatmeal. Combine ingredients in usual manner. Shape bits of dough with fingers, flatten and bake in moderate oven.

MAKE SOME FOR THANKSGIVING

NEW ORLEANS WAFERS (Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Teated Recipe)—One cup New Orleans molasses, one-half cup lard, one-half cup flour, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup shortening, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon soda, one tablespoon butter. Bring molasses and shortening to the boiling point. Cool and add other ingredients. Beat well and add enough sifted flour to make a stiff dough. Roll out very thin, cut and bake in a moderate oven (350 F.) 5 to 8 minutes.

Thanksgiving

"AS we gather about the family board today, let us remember the homeless, and homeless, and un-betried, and be sure we have done something to make sunshine in their hearts, no matter what November gloom may reign without. And as we grasp the hand and look into the eyes of friend and kinsman, be this the greeting we give: 'Brother, whatever else our homes provide today of plenty and good cheer, let us provide things honest in the sight of all men.'"

—Henry C. Potter, D. D.

After every Thanksgiving Day, the National Tuberculosis association starts its Christmas stamp sale. Through the sum accrued through the yearly sale of these stamps, the association is able to carry on its work in the campaign to prevent tuberculosis and to aid destitute sufferers. By buying your quota of these little stamps, you will help "provide all things honest in the sight of men." Let it be a part of your method of expressing your thankfulness this day, and by so doing you will not only be helping to give health, happiness and shelter to the needy tubercular, but you will make your own health, happiness and shelter more secure.

"Dear Doctor: About eight months ago I started on your diet and health book, and now I have reduced from 207 1-2 to 150—a loss of 57 1-2 pounds. Hallelujah! But Dr. Peters, for the sake of these dear, dumb relatives of mine, won't you please write in your column the fact that I'm not going to die? Perhaps they'll believe you! Can a person with such an abundance of pep be dying? I never felt so wonderful in all my life as I do right now."

"I am 30 years old, 5 feet 6 1-2 inches tall, and large boned. What should I weigh if I have reduced too much, is it dangerous to be underweight? I'm just thrilled to death with the results. Most of my friends like me better now and I've started not a few reducing and they are having the same good results. But I can't convince my relatives that I'm very much alive. Yours for Petersizing. MRS. J."

According to the rule of allowing 110 pounds for 5 feet in height (in stocking feet) and 5 1-2 pounds for each inch over that, you are normal weight, for you can add 5 per cent for your heavy framework. Mrs. J.

No, it is not dangerous to be so under the average weight after 30. Not only is it not dangerous, but it is better. Insurance company statistics show that it is conducive to better health and longevity. You may have saved yourself from a lot of serious disorders by getting off that poundage.

Those who need instructions on how to reduce or gain weight may have our pamphlet on the subject by following column rules.

Dear Followers, not only on Thanksgiving Day, but on all days am I happy that I have my work which enables me to give you help in your health problems. And I thank you with all my heart for your beautiful letters, letting me know that I have helped you, and I wish I could thank you all personally.

EDITORS NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose, nor give personal advice. If she considers your questions of general interest, they will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and 2 cents in coin for each; for the pamphlets on "Reducing and Gaining" and the "Hygiene of Women," 10 cents in coin (for extra) and fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, must be enclosed. (These charges are to cover cost of printing and handling.) Address Dr. Peters, in care of this newspaper.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

What is a "good sport?" Is it a person who does just as everyone wants her to, whether she thinks it right or not? That's the usual definition we are all out with a crowd, is it not?

"Poor sport," "wet blanket," "flat tire," etc., are some of the epithets hurled at those who refuse to do what the crowd does. It takes a mighty tactful person to stand her ground and "get away with it."

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am a young girl in my teens and everyone says I'm good looking. But when I am in company they say I am a poor sport because I don't drink or smoke. They say I'm a piker. And, Virginia, I am trying to find me a boy friend who doesn't drink heavily. Do you think I will succeed? LUCILLE."

I hesitate to publish your letter, Lucille, as I expect an influx of letters asking for your address and I must remind my readers that addresses are never given through this column. Many boys seem convinced that all girls care for is drinking, smoking, painting their faces and necking. So you see there ARE boys who like girls who are the kind of poor sports and pikers that you are.

The best way to avoid such situations as you describe is to go with people who don't drink or smoke, but if you can't do that make a joke of your abstinence. Say you're a T. A. (total abstainer), when the drinks are going 'round, and make an equally flippant remark when you are asked to smoke. A jolly person, with a ready wit, can get away with that sort of thing without causing annoyance. I think, in their hearts, they will respect you a lot more than if you did just what everyone else does.

Let Me to Thy Bosom Fly. That is the only strength I can rely on. I am worried day and night, getting to be a nervous wreck. We two could live together like angels if it were not for that woman. Now, Virg, what shall I do? What is your advice to me?

I am afraid I can offer more sympathy than advice. At your time in life you don't want to start out for yourself, even if you did not love your husband. There can be no fear of him going away with her, as she, too, is married.

You are sure of your facts, of course? Have you ever met her? Could you get to know her? I always imagine if I was in like situation I would go and see the woman and try to find out her side of the case, and what excuse she has. This would be terribly agitating, of course, but if you went, without anger, it might be illuminating.

If nothing of this kind is practical and you would not leave your husband and make other living arrangements, try to forget your grief in doing what you can to lighten others' burdens. Remember that very few are without some sorrow, and need friendly help. Maybe in little ways you can be a friend to some other lonely soul who has even less of sunshine in her life than you.

LONESOME LUCY: I realize that young ladies of 14 do have love affairs, no matter how hard their parents try to convince them they are too young. Don't get hipped on the subject of boys' love, and don't go with boys of whom your parents do not approve. I imagine, from what you say, that the boy friend is attracted to you, but is bashful, and I would be as friendly as I could—so as to encourage him, and know—without appearing to—of making all the advances. Or, are you too overcome when you meet to do more than say "Hello" and blush, too?

THE ONE MINUTE PULPIT

O Lord, I know that the way of man is not in himself; it is not in him that walketh to direct his steps.

O Lord, correct me, but with judgment; not in thine anger, lest thou bring me to nothing.—Jeremiah x, 23, 24.

Peter's Adventures

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

FATHER BEETLE seemed surprised at his young son's actions. "You are a sulky little beetle, Biffer," said he sternly. "I have a good mind to box you. I don't know what your mother would say if she could see you now."

Biffer did have the grace to look a bit ashamed of himself but he muttered under his breath: "If Cousin Sexton Beetle dines on a fat mouse now and again I don't see how there can be anything so wrong about it. At least I'd like to taste mouse meat. If I didn't like it I could leave it alone, you know, dad." Father Beetle stared at Biffer for a long moment, then he made up his mind to let his small son learn a lesson from experience.

"Very well, son if there is any here who will go as your guest to Cousin Sexton's feast you shall decide for yourself whether I am right or wrong, and make up your mind whether you will do as Gun Beetles do or will change your custom to those of Cousin Sexton."

"Fine!" shouted Biffer and threw his little hat into the air. "Now shall dine on a new fare. Who will go with me to Cousin Sexton's feast?"

Not a beetle spoke for the hon or. Then Grass-Green lazily drawl ed.

"Count me out, please!" And on after another all the beetles cried: "And me," "and me," "and me!"

When Peter saw how disappointed Biffer looked when not a single Gun Beetle accepted his invitation he said:

"I'll go with you, Biffer, if you like," and then almost regretted his offer. Certainly he didn't care to make a meal on mice, but he wanted to find out who Cousin Sexton was. Besides he had come to like little Biffer and had a notion to make the youngster happy. He succeeded well.

Xenia Central High's bruised and battered Bucs, somewhat heartened by their recent improved showing against Sidney, will renew their ancient football rivalry with Springfield High in the sixteenth annual grid argument between these two schools Thanksgiving Day at Springfield, marking the final game of the season for both teams.

The game will be played Thursday morning, starting at 10 o'clock, at Wittenberg College's stadium.

Records back as far as 1911 reveal that in fifteen games between the two schools Springfield has won eleven times and Xenia three with one contest ending in a tie. Over the period Springfield has piled up 40 points against 108 for Xenia.

Between the years 1911 and 1920 Xenia teams could never beat Springfield but since 1921 each school has won three games and one ended in a tie.

No games were played in 1913, 1917 and 1925.

The Bucs regard Springfield as their most ancient football foe, outside of Wilmington. Last season Xenia triumphed 25 to 13 and the preceding year an inspired Xenia eleven scored an upset by holding Springfield to a 6 to 6 tie.

Xenia-Springfield football scores since 1911 follow:

- 1911—Xenia 0, Springfield 23.
- 1912—Xenia 0, Springfield 95.
- 1913—No game.
- 1914—Xenia 10, Springfield 15.
- 1915—Xenia 0, Springfield 47.
- 1916—Xenia 0, Springfield 26.
- 1917—No game.
- 1918—Xenia 7, Springfield 48.
- 1919—Xenia 0, Springfield 39.
- 1920—Xenia 0, Springfield 41.
- 1921—Xenia 34, Springfield 0.
- 1922—Xenia 20, Springfield 0.
- 1923—Xenia 0, Springfield 27.
- 1924—Xenia 6, Springfield 33.
- 1925—No game.
- 1926—Xenia 0, Springfield 7.
- 1927—Xenia 6, Springfield 6.
- 1928—Xenia 25, Springfield 13.
- 1929—Xenia 7, Springfield 7.

Collegiate football games scheduled for Thanksgiving Day and next Saturday will bring to a close the 1929 grid season and also the contest conducted among Xenia and Springfield in which the weekly predictions of a fan are published.

George "Monk" Herr, the little big shot on the Park-O-Light football outfit, is the forecaster of this week. Nineteen games carded for Thursday and Saturday are combined in his forecast. Here are his selections:

- Thanksgiving Day
- Alabama to beat Georgia.
- Colgate to beat Brown.
- Miami to beat Cincinnati.
- Syracuse to beat Columbia.
- Dayton to beat Wittenberg.
- Tennessee to beat Kentucky.
- Kansas Aggies to beat Marquette.
- Nebraska to beat Iowa State.
- New York U. to beat Carnegie.
- Cornell to beat Pennsylvania.
- Pittsburgh to beat Penn State.
- St. Xavier to beat Haskell.
- Wash. and Jeff. to beat W. Virginia.
- West. Reserve to beat Case.
- Saturday's Games
- Boston College to beat Holy Cross.
- Georgetown to beat Detroit.
- Villanova to beat Temple.
- Notre Dame to beat Army.
- Dartmouth to beat Navy.

BUCCANEERS YEARN FOR VICTORY; PLAY SPRINGFIELD HIGH

Will Stage Classic In Wittenberg's Big Stadium

By PHIL FRAME

Every effort is being expended this week to whip Xenia Central High's football squad into a winning stride for the annual Thanksgiving Day football classic with Springfield High at Wittenberg College stadium Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

The game will mark the completion of the schedule for both teams and the same combination that started the last game with Sidney will probably cavort onto the field against Springfield.

Xenia will enact the role of determined football David in the Turkey Day clash with Springfield's gridiron Goliath.

The squad is taking only relatively light work this week for the members not definitely out for good are in nearly prime condition for the big battle and Coach Wilson will take no chances on further injuries before Thursday.

Just because they will enter the contest as the under-dog, the Bucs will be at their best. Last week Xenia's cause against Sidney was rated as hopeless but the Blue and White eleven showed unsuspected offensive power and was only nosed out by two points, 20 to 18, the margin of two extra points after touchdowns.

Then, too, Xenia has everything to gain and nothing in particular to lose against Springfield. Claiming no championships and already defeated eight times in succession, Xenia is viewed by Springfield as another easy victim.

Seven members of the Buccaneer squad will don grid togs for the last time Thursday. They are Joe Smittle, John Hurley, Harper Billmyre, John Pulliam, John Cooper, Kenneth Finlay and Theodore Patton. John Schlepp and Minor Monroe, two other senior regulars, will be prevented by injuries from even appearing in uniform.

Springfield has a strong team this season. It lost two games, one to Dayton Stivers and another to Hamilton, both by overwhelming scores, however. Hamilton's victory was by the top-heavy margin of 83 to 0. Against other teams Springfield has looked good.

Xenia, out to make amends for a disastrous season, should be an inspired eleven Thursday and the wonderful exhibition against Sidney is taken as an indication the Bucs have at least come into their own.

Thursday's tilt will be the sixteenth game between the two schools since 1911. Springfield has beaten Xenia eleven times. Xenia has won three times and a tie game was played in 1927. Last season the Bucs were victorious, 25 to 13.

SEND IN VOTES!

XENIA football fans are urged to take advantage of the ballot published in yesterday's GAZETTE and express their choice for All-American football honors this year.

They will thus participate in a national survey in which the real grid fans, instead of a few favored experts, will select the players thought deserving of mention on the mythical team.

Send in your votes to the sport department of this paper not later than Wednesday, and they will be included in the national poll conducted by Central Press Association, Cleveland. Fans all over the country are taking part and the result of their decision in the matter of all-stars will be revealed in this paper later.

BANDIT WOUNDED

CLEVELAND, Nov. 26. — One bandit was believed wounded and another was captured early today when a policeman surprised three robbers in the act of burglarizing a drugstore here.

WITTENBERG WITHDRAWS FROM BUCKEYE LOOP; OTHERS REMAIN

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 26. — The Buckeye Athletic Association, hitherto known as the "Big Six" today had become the "Big Five," following the voluntary withdrawal of Wittenberg College from that football league last night.

The fires of dissension had been smoldering in the conference for more than a year and Wittenberg's resignation did not come as a surprise.

In a statement after the annual meeting of the officials of the B. A. A., at a downtown hotel here last night, Wittenberg college heads charged their action was the result of unjustifiable attacks made against the school by other members of the association.

Only one side of the story was told in the formal utterance. Other "Big Five" universities issued no communication. They simply drew up their 1930 gridiron schedules and went home.

Wittenberg apparently had been contemplating its becoming an "outlaw" moleskin aggregation for some time, as a schedule for the school was announced. It follows: Sept. 24—Centre at Springfield, Oct. 4—John Carroll at Cleveland.

Oct. 11—Washington and Jefferson at Springfield.

Oct. 18—St. Xavier at Cincinnati.

Nov. 1—Marshall at Huntington.

Nov. 8—Temple at Springfield (tentative).

Nov. 15—Cincinnati (place of game undecided).

Thanksgiving — University of Dayton at Dayton.

Cincinnati is the only B. A. A. university which gave Wittenberg a place on its schedule. It is known that Miami and Denison refused to afford Wittenberg an engagement date as the athletic relations between the two schools and the Springfield college were strained. The attitude which Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio University took at the meeting is unknown.

It would seem logical, however, that Ohio Wesleyan sided with Miami and Denison, inasmuch as athletic officials at the Delaware university feared that the conference would go on the rocks.

Ohio University is alleged to have been the school which started the trouble a year ago. An official there issued a statement alleging that a school in the conference had engaged in the practice of subsidizing athletes. Though no names were mentioned, all eyes were turned upon Wittenberg.

An apology was afterward tendered to the Lutherans, but the harm had already been done. The seed of dissension had been sown and it bore fruit recently when reports became rife that Wittenberg would be dropped from the conference.

Wittenberg took the only stand it could. It resigned.

The fact that Cincinnati scheduled a game with Wittenberg indicates that the Queen City university was in sympathy with the Lutheran team. This may result eventually in another split considering the hostile attitude of Miami and Denison toward Wittenberg.

Cincinnati is a weak member of the conference now, and it is not much feared by other members on the gridiron. Should the Bearcats put a strong team on the field, however, the feeling of toleration may devolve into further hostilities.

Wittenberg charged that it al-

FORTY-THREE TURN OUT FOR COURT CALL

Answering Assistant Coach Glenn Patterson's initial call for candidates for the 1929-30 season, forty-three boys who aspire to membership on the Central Junior High basketball team indulged in first practice in the school gymnasium Monday afternoon after school hours.

The squad was cut to twenty-one candidates Monday and within the next week will be further reduced to twelve or fifteen. Candidates will be put through fundamentals and lumbering up exercises. Plenty of material is available in the opinion of Coach Patterson for development of a strong quintet this season.

Camels have made smoking a national pleasure!

With years of steady growth behind them, Camels continue to grow. They are smoked today by more millions than ever before.

The increasing popularity of smoking in the United States exactly parallels the growth of Camel Cigarettes. Camel has given smokers a cigarette of genuine quality ... a marvelous blend of choicest tobaccos ... mild, fragrant, satisfying. This is the quality that smokers depend upon, and they can rest assured it will never be sacrificed. Taste in smoking, as the real pleasure of smoking is experienced, leads directly to Camel quality.

STOMACH MISERY
QUICKLY ENDED
BY NEW KONJOLA

"It is Doubtful Whether I Would Have Regained My Health Without This Remedy", Says Happy Man

"I had been troubled, off and on for some time, with a disordered stomach," said Mr. William J. Carpenter, 1819 Booth Street, Toledo, Ohio. "Of late it got so bad that anything I ate caused intense misery. Gas formed in large quantities, which in turn, made me gasp for breath. Because of this condition the other organs became affected and poisonous secretions went throughout my system. "A friend recommended Konjola and insisted that I try it. Very soon after starting with this new medicine I felt results. First my appetite returned and then my strength began to come back. The aches and pains vanished and the poisons were eliminated from my system. Now I can eat as I used to—anything I want. As long as I live I shall be grateful for Konjola." Konjola is a new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. Konjola works quickly and thoroughly at the very root, the fount of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, but to bring new, glorious, and lasting health. Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Callahan Drug Store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section, Adv.

INDIA RECEPTIVE TO CHRIST
MISSIONARY SAYS AT MEETING

"In new India there is but little hatred or opposition against Christians and Christianity as compared with earlier days," said the Rev. Guizardi Lall Lorenzo, district superintendent at Muzaffarpore, India, speaking before a large audience at the morning session of the World Mission of Christianity at the First M. E. Church here Tuesday morning. The Rev. Mr. Lorenzo was the second speaker on the morning program, following the Rev. Edwin T. Iglehart, missionary to Japan, and he lent a colorful note to the interesting assemblage of mission workers attired in the turbans of his native country. His address was a high light of the all day session. "There was a time, when, if any high or low caste man or woman was converted to the Christian faith, he would be cut off from his family and caste," said the Rev. Mr. Lorenzo. "They would look down upon him, despise him. In many cases they would beat him and stop all connection and concern with him. In India men have had to pay a bitter price to accept Jesus Christ and to bear His cross. This is no longer true in India, at least not in the sense which your fathers recognized. Moreover the Christian standard of life, both socially and intellectually, is so much higher than that of Hindus and Mohammedans that Hindus and Mohammedans have a new faith and confidence in the Indian Christian leaders. There is a new desire among educated non-Christians to know about Jesus Christ and to read the Bible. They are eager to know more and more about Him." "India is ready, and educated Hindus are willing to accept Jesus Christ as one of their incarnations (avatars) or gods. They will accept him as their guru (teacher) and they admire him and praise him for the high example he has set before the world." "Therefore, in India, there is a wonderful, a golden opportunity to set forth Jesus Christ as the only Saviour. India is tired and sick of her old gods, incarnations, rivers, hills, trees, animals, religions, superstitions. They followed them and worshipped them generation after generation without any good result. New India is looking for a Saviour who will really save and towards a church where there is true brotherhood. There are hundreds of non-Christians in all the provinces of India where a picture representing Jesus is found in their homes and where the Bible is read regularly. The real essence of Christianity is so mingled with the atmosphere of India that all the old religions of India are changing their character, thinking, traditions, manners, habits and customs are being changed so that when they talk with Christians they will not feel ashamed. They are rising, socially and spiritually to a higher standard of life."

COMMISSIONERS TO MEET WITH COOPER
IN COLUMBUS SOON

County Commissioners and County Surveyor W. J. Davis have been invited to participate in a conference being arranged by Governor Myers V. Cooper at the Southern Hotel in Columbus at 11 a. m. Thursday, December 5, called for the purpose of determining what steps may be immediately undertaken to speed up a program of public improvements in Ohio. The invitation was extended in a telegram received by commissioners Monday from Governor Cooper, who pointed out that President Hoover has asked the governors of various states to cooperate with the federal government in speeding up a public works program to avoid possible unemployment in the country. In harmony with this request Governor Cooper is inviting county commissioners and county surveyors of each of Ohio's eighty-eight counties to meet in Columbus and confer with him and Robert Waid, state highway director. The telegram requested the Greene County officials to be prepared to give a complete statement regarding expenditures made for public improvements in this county during the last six months as well as contemplated improvements for the next twelve months. CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 26.—Victor H. Harding, Jr., of Hubbard Woods, Ill. Harvard end who was seriously injured in the Harvard-Yale game was showing steady improvement today at Stillman Infirmary.

Harding, who underwent a blood transfusion operation for a ruptured spleen, was still too weak today to receive friends. Mrs. Victor H. Harding, Sr., and her daughter visit the patient daily. Several members of the Harvard varsity have undergone blood tests and stand ready to give blood should Harding's condition demand another transfusion. Dr. T. K. Richard, Harvard's football physician, said today he was highly optimistic over Harding's condition.

THANKSGIVING DAY
UNION SERVICES TO BE HELD WEDNESDAY

Union Thanksgiving services this year for Xenia churches will be held Wednesday evening starting at 7:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian Church, Market and King Sts. The Rev. Joel R. Lunsford, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will preach the sermon. Mrs. Pearl Armstrong, director of the Presbyterian Vested Choir will direct two Thanksgiving anthems and Mrs. William Anderson, organist, will play special organ numbers appropriate for the season. The services the night before the holiday is an experiment this year. Previously, when services were held on the morning of Thanksgiving Day, attendance was small because many church-goers spend the holiday in other cities. The Rev. James P. Lytle, president of the Xenia Ministerial Association, which set the time for the service this year for Wednesday night, believes this gives opportunity for everyone to attend the service as suggested by the President's proclamation. Special organ numbers announced by Mrs. Anderson for the program

follow: "Thanksgiving Festival Fantasy," "O Praise the Lord to Whom is a Good Thing to Sing Praise Unto Our God," "Song of Autumn" and "Thanksgiving March."

LOWER PRICES AT OPENING OF MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Lower prices were quoted at the opening of the market today for copper, steel, motor and specialty stock while the utilities and a few railroad moved against the trend. Recorded moderate gains as the market swung into action.

AURORA, PLACED MARK TWAIN WAS MINER, SINKS BACK TO DESERT

BISHOP, Cal., Nov. 26.—Aurora, once a thriving mining town where Mark Twain during his early career worked for $1 a week in a mining mill, has sunk back into the desert, abandoned, and forgotten.

In 1869, Aurora, in the Western Nevada mountains near the California line, boasted it had produced $30,000,000 in gold from nearby mines. The gold played out. Miners drifted away. Buildings were deserted and now stand decaying. Desert vegetation grows in the once busy streets.

A surviving landmark is the Aurora saloon, now in ruins, but with its ancient mirrors, long bar and brass rail still standing. "Choice Wines, Liquors, Cigars and Best Brands of Beer" were for sale there says a large sign on the front plate glass window, still intact.

Investigation May Bring Her Freedom

Mrs. Etta Mae Miller, whose life term for violation of the State liquor laws is being investigated by the grand jury at Lansing, Mich. The investigation was made following a report that the liquor found in possession of Mrs. Miller was "planted."

Walls of the court house stand, but little remains of the town bank except the vault which often contained millions in gold.

In his book "Roughing It" Mark Twain said that while working for $1 a week he asked for a raise.

The foreman asked Twain what he thought his "salary" should be.

Twain replied it would take $37,000 a week to keep him in Aurora.

So Twain left. Now all the other citizens are gone. Only the coyotes remain keeping their lonely vigil in streets that once knew activity twenty-four hours a day.

BISHOP PAUL JONES SPEAKS AT ANTIOCH

"Scientific study of human behavior has not lessened individual responsibility, rather, it has strengthened it and turned it into new channels. We are increasingly responsible for others as well as for ourselves."

This view of the effect of forces that determine human conduct was set before the students of Antioch College Monday by Bishop Paul Jones, of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Southern Ohio.

Bishop Jones emphasized the fallacy in the thinking of determinists who go to the extreme of denying all responsibility for their conduct by asserting that everything they do is determined by their social experiences. "The very importance of social experiences makes it necessary for us to assume a share of responsibility in

NEARLY HUNDRED BUT STILL FARMS

CARDINGTON, O., Nov. 26.—At the end of a long lane from a seldom traveled road near here, lives David Jones who is 98 years old today and is still farming.

Today is Jones' birthday and with his celebration he recalls Ohio in its primitive days.

Jones was born in Oneida County, New York, in 1831 and while still a young man, left his native state for Ohio. After a few years at Zanesville came the Civil War and for three years he served with Company C, 88th Ohio Regiment.

He was captain of the guard of eight men who watched over Lincoln's body while it rested at Camp Chase.

In 1867 Jones moved to Morrow County and bought a farm known as "the land of sour ground and bitter water." He drained the soil, filtered the water and tilled his acres successfully.

Jones is in excellent health at 98. He points out that he has shunned tea, coffee, meat and tobacco.

PRISONER BREAKS STATE GAME LAWS

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Nov. 26.—Game Warden L. A. Paxton, New Lexington, contemplates a trip into the Ohio Penitentiary brick plant and says he may arrest somebody and charge them with violating the game laws.

Recently the game protector said he accidentally ran across an old fashioned rabbit trap on the prison grounds. Searching further, the warden claims to have found a dozen more.

Not only is it unlawful to trap rabbits at any time, Paxton points out, but the prisoners were trapping out of season.

Ohio Youth Raises Much Of State's Turkey Supply For Thanksgiving Tables.

By Central Press
NEW LEXINGTON, O., Nov. 26.—Arthur Metzger, 24-year-old Junction City youth, will furnish much of the turkey supply for the festive tables of Central Ohio at Thanksgiving this year.

In 1925 young Metzger was graduated from school. He turned from his books much as many other young men of today do, with the query, "What shall I do for a living?"

Arthur's mother, Mrs. John Metzger, had been in the habit of raising a half dozen turkeys to supply the home table each year. It gave her son an idea.

The first year Metzger raised only enough turkeys to pay expenses. This year he branched out on a heavier scale, buying one-day-old baby turkeys from different hatcheries throughout the country. Today he has a flock of 1,100 of his turkey-ships that would make any big produce dealer sit up all night to bid on.

Metzger has 600 gobblers that will average 20 pounds each, and 500 hens that will tip the scales at 12½ pounds each.

Metzger has approximately $10,000 worth of turkeys on his little farm, which is located one mile south of Junction City. A heavy armed guard is maintained day and night as a precaution against marauding poultry thieves.

This young man's idea will net him this year as much profit as the average 500-acre-farm in any section of this county.

The birds are all very tame. Hunters will follow a stranger all over the little farm, but beware of the buttons on your coat, money in your pocket, stogies in your mouth if you want to keep them. They grab for everything. The writer lost several buttons that may be found in your Thanksgiving feast.

For 3 minutes everything depends on motor oil

ENGINEERS have found that 60% of all engine wear occurs in the first three minutes of running!—A hazard which greatly increases in winter.

To assure safety to vital engine parts at the zero hour of starting, Shell engineers have developed an oil with a low pour point—an oil which flows freely in cold weather.

The constantly increasing thousands who use Shell Motor Oil don't have to run the risk of changing to a lighter-bodied oil in winter. They can and do drive with complete confidence that lubrication starts when the engine starts.

Shell crude comes from hand-picked wells in Shell's vast producing fields. The new Shell-developed, low-temperature refining process prepares the crude for use. And before it reaches you, it passes 259 tests which check and certify the rich, unvarying quality of every quart.

That quality assures every essential of a modern motor oil for year-round service: Low Pour Point, Ideal Body at All Operating Temperatures, Low Carbon Content, and Non-Fouling Carbon.

STOP AT THE SIGN OF THE SHELL

—And let the Shell Lubrication Chart be your guide. Courteous salesmen await you at the familiar yellow and red service stations. Convenient everywhere.

To the man who uses his car all winter—we say: "Try Shell for 30 days"

One cold morning's experience will give you a new conception of how easy winter starting can be. A few days' trial will show you how quickly lubrication can be achieved when the mercury is trying to curl up and disappear.

400 "Extra Dry" Shell Gasoline is made-to-order for winter use. Starts quick. Burns completely because it's "dry" gasoline. Ought to cost more, but it doesn't.

SHELL PETROLEUM CORPORATION

NOT ALL ARE CURED

"The Home of Thrift"

It is said there is some good in all evil. The train of tragedies issuing from the stock market has taught hundreds of thousands that trying to beat each other, trying to get something for nothing, without creating anything of value, is a vain pursuit, and that it is better to stick to the sober ways of getting on in the world.

But all are not permanently cured, for most people are born gamblers. Some of those who won will want to try again, and many of those who lost will hope to recover their losses. These will continue to furnish work for the shearers and produce occasional flares in the market as it continues to further gradually settle to where it belongs. It is not there yet.

Don't be deceived! There are literally hundreds of millions of dollars now available to trained operators, skilled investors, and investment trusts, ready and watching, and if there are any "bargains" in stocks, they will not be allowed to reach you. Keep your 6% and Safety and you will have more money in the long run.

1930 CHRISTMAS CLUB NOW OPEN

ARGENTINE SPEAKS AT LUTHER LEAGUE
MEETING AT CHURCH

"Protestant missions have contributed no small share in the evangelizing of the South American people," declared Senor James Soler, Buenos Aires, Argentina, at a meeting of the Luther League of the First Lutheran Church Sunday night.

Senor Soler is a midgler in Hamma Divinity School of Wittenberg College, Springfield, and is studying to become a missionary. He will return to the Argentine in June, 1931, upon the completion of his theological course.

The young Argentine presented his message in the form of a journey to the various South American countries and spoke especially of the religious progress in their capitals. He related how Christianity, including all denominations, is gradually turning the people away from ancient superstition to the new and better ways of living. From his talk it would be inferred that religious efforts have in most cases preceded commercial plans in the Latin American republics.

By publishing his message home and to make it more personal to American Luther Leaguers, Soler told of the activities of that young people's organization in Buenos Aires. The Luther League program of activity in the Argentine includes four different phases. They are: religious, educational, cultural, and physical. No Luther League there can be successful without the frequent use of these types of meetings or certain combinations from them, he said.

At the conclusion of his address, the visiting theologian conducted an open forum, and answered several questions propounded to him by members of the League. Soler handles the English language nicely. He was employed in the Frigidaire plant in Dayton as a translator of Spanish and Argentine commercial correspondence during the past summer. He is a member of the Cosmopolitan Club of Wittenberg, which presented a play in McKinley School here several weeks ago.

Treasurer of Greene Co., Ohio.

SUGGESTIONS TO TAXPAYERS
Taxes are payable in two installments, December 20th and June 20th. Taxes due in the first half are payable December 20th, and those due in the last half, June 20th of the following year. Thus: 1928 taxes are payable, the first half by December 20th, 1928, and the last half by June 20, 1929.
Come in early. Taxes may be paid now and the late rush avoided.
When requesting tax bills by mail, send LAST TAX RECEIPT together with a self-addressed, stamped envelope. If last tax receipt is not available, the FOLLOWING INFORMATION MUST BE SENT: Subdivision, original lot number, lot frontage, sublot number, name of street, name of city, village or township; and name of owner on second Monday in April.
Taxpayers are required to first secure their tax bills before they send a remittance. Rates and valuations often change each year, and the amounts due for the new year may be different from the year before. Compliance with the above will prevent duplication of property sold after the second Monday in April will not appear in the new owner's name until December of the following year. Thus: Property sold by John Doe on May 15th, 1928, will appear in his name throughout the entire taxing year of 1928. The new owner's name will appear on the duplicate available in December 1929.
It must be remembered that it is the duty of the County Treasurer to collect the amounts appearing on his duplicate. He is not responsible for the valuation, and has no authority to change any listing, spelling, house number, special assessment or error not caused through copying from the duplicate to the tax bill. The County Auditor SHOULD BE CONSULTED IN REGARD TO THE ABOVE.
Where a portion of the property listed on the current tax duplicate has been sold, no partial payment on taxes will be allowed, nor a split bill be made. It is a matter to be adjusted between the grantor and the grantee.
When calling at the County Treasurer's office for new tax bills, tax-payers are requested to present their LAST TAX RECEIPTS. Both the clerk and the tax-payer can save much time by complying with the above request.
When paying tax bills through the mail, a self-addressed, stamped envelope should be enclosed if the return of the receipt is desired. Do not send cash unless it is REGISTERED.
Tax-payers often forward their remittance to this office with neither tax bill nor description of their property. The name alone is not sufficient to locate the property in question among the 399,999 parcels taxable in Greene County. (See above, No. 3 and No. 4.)
Taxes paid to the County Treasurer are deductible in your Federal Income Tax Report.
Postage stamps will not be accepted in payment of taxes.
It should be borne in mind that this office collects annually over $1,500,000 in taxes. To collect this huge amount efficiently requires the co-operation of the tax-payer. This office is desirous of rendering the most efficient service possible and therefore urges that tax-payers read and comply with the above.
Tax-payers will please examine their bills and see if all their lands appear thereon, and lot numbers agree with your deed.

PENALTIES
A penalty of ten per cent is placed on all real estate taxes which have not been paid at the close of each collection.
Taxes on property which have not been paid for two consecutive payments are marked certified delinquent and are certified to the State Auditor.
Foreclosure proceedings for non-payment of taxes are brought after the taxes on property have been certified delinquent for four (4) consecutive years.
The State imposes a penalty of ten per cent on personal property taxes if not paid before the last day allowed by law.

HOOVER PLEASED BY MOVES STARTED FOR BETTER BUSINESS

them; it can only point the way.

This task, Mr. Hoover considers now to have been largely accomplished. There are some odds and ends and details to be cleaned up, but in the main the job is finished, and the responsibility for business has been placed on the shoulders of business.

There is but one more conference of a major character in view. Next week, a few days after the new congress assembles in regular session, several hundred outstanding leaders of industry and business are coming to Washington at the instance of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce to consider the establishment of a permanent "business council" the purpose of which is to act as an advisory body in the carrying on of the policies initiated by the president. Julius Barnes is acting as Mr. Hoover's chief lieutenant in this undertaking, but the president himself will open the parley and outline his ideas of its future activity.

The depressing effect on American shipyards caused by further disarmament moves has been considerably nullified by assurance of greatly increased commercial ship building.

The interdepartmental board, composed of cabinet officers, has decided to let mail contracts which call for the construction of about forty new ships, totalling some 400,000 tons, and costing around $250,000,000. This means busy shipyards and considerable business for the steel industry.

All in all, administration leaders are fairly well content with what has been accomplished, and with the immediate outlook for the future. So, presumably, are the business leaders of the country. At least, they have gone away from Washington daily during the past ten days optimistic and cheerful. If they have had tears they have not shed them in the immediate vicinity of the White House.

GLOOM DESCENDS ON CHEST OFFICERS AS COLLECTIONS HALT

of the industrial heads of our city?

"Following this thought, I am taking the liberty of inviting men who employ large numbers of persons, and men who are at the head of our financial institutions, to meet me in conference Tuesday afternoon, November 26 at 4 o'clock, in my office at the City Building. I would be very grateful indeed if each industry and financial institution would send a member of its organization to advise with me, in order that I may act intelligently in the appeal which has been made to me by the chest drive officials.

"I, therefore, appeal to your civic interest to be at this meeting."

Very truly yours,
KARL R. BABB,
Mayor.

FINED, SENTENCED ON DRIVING CHARGE

A fine of $100 and costs, sentence of thirty days in the County Jail and suspension of his driving rights for six months was the penalty imposed Tuesday morning by Probate Judge S. C. Wright upon Adam Green, Dayton, who entered a guilty plea to a charge of operating an auto while intoxicated. Green was arrested Saturday night by L. A. Davis, county road patrolman, after his car crashed into that of August McNeel, Xenia, at Trebels. No one was injured in the collision.

READ THIS FIRST:

Rosalie March, seventeen, works at the hosiery counter of a department store, a position she secured through the kindness of Kenessa DuBarry, an actress, who took pity on her when Rosalie's mother died. Rosalie is adored by her landlady, Mother Murphy, and little Tim O'Hara, the corner newsie. Alberto Martino, the store detective, threatens Rosalie with arrest when he catches her with a pair of silk stockings she has taken until payday. He prevails upon her to hide some suitcases in her room. Roy Clarke Andrews, nephew of the store owner, asks Rosalie to marry him. Martino's gang kidnaps Roy, and when Rosalie threatens to expose him, Martino is mysteriously shot. The police arrive.

Of course, Rosalie is accused of the murder, and is taken to the station to be questioned.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXII

"What is your name?"
"Rosalie March."

"Where do you live?"
"For the past few weeks I have been living at Mother Murphy's boarding house on Race Street."

"How old are you?"
"Seventeen."

"Parents living?"
"No."

"Are you sure?"
"My father died when I was a baby and my mother died three months ago."

Rosalie had been answering questions in a routine manner—and the officer had scarcely looked up from his book. But when she told him of her mother he looked up and studied the grave, pale face before him.

He sighed, as though he, too, might be a little tired, and went on.

"Why did you come to Philadelphia? Have you people here?"

"I have no one. I came because I had to work. We had no money."

"When did you meet this man Martino?"

"The—the day I went to work in the store."

"Did he try to make a date with you? Did he get fresh with you and try to take you out?"

Rosalie hesitated. That would be a good way out. She could make them believe he had tried to annoy her. Could she bring herself to tell them the truth? How she had taken the stockings and how they had fallen from her dress—and about his visit to her and his threat and her promises?

She dropped her head then—and lied.

"Y—yes. He said I'd lose my job if I didn't go out with him."

She looked so innocent that he believed her. Three detectives stood by, all chewing at big cigars—and did not take their eyes from her face.

"Did you go out with him or did you refuse?"

"I—I refused at first. But he made me go. He—he said he would kill me."

"What were your relations to him? Did—did you live with him?"

Rosalie knew then that she should not have lied. Her voice rose in terror.

"Oh! No! Don't ask me any more questions—please!"

He went on mercilessly.

"You lived with him and he gave you money and clothes. Is that it?"

She broke down and began to sob. Then they believed that she had lied.

"Come on," he urged her, impatiently, "that's nothing to blubber about now. How much money did he give you?"

That made her angry.

"I—I've never taken money from a man in my life. Do you think I'm one—a bad woman?"

One of the detectives laughed. Coming from a girl that had just killed a man on one of the most questionable streets in Philadelphia that was funny. She was putting the old ritz rag over on them!

Rosalie was a puzzle to all of them. There was divided opinion. Either she was very shrewd and very experienced or she was too innocent to be real. Girls did not shoot their men friends with such utter nonchalance unless they had a very good reason. How could she possibly have become involved so deeply in less than three months?

The kid had been stepping pretty high. No doubt about it.

"How long have you been carrying a gun?" she was asked then.

"I—I never saw one of the terrible things hardly until three or four days ago. I didn't carry it. I kept it under my pillow."

Rosalie racked her brain for an excuse for the gun. How could she get out of it?

"You expected to kill this bird, then?"

"I—I got it because I was on a fire escape—and I was afraid someone would climb up while I was asleep."

"Where did you get it?"

"I—I found it."

Rosalie was not a very good liar. She hadn't had enough practice. They all laughed and she knew she had made a big mistake again. The officer began to reason with her.

"You better tell the truth, now. It's much easier. Everything you say will be used against you. You've killed your boy friend for some reason—and we want to know what it was."

"He—he wasn't my boy friend. My boy friend—"

She caught herself just in time. But she had given herself away. She had practically admitted to them then that she did have a boy friend.

"Go on, sister. Who was your boy friend—and what has he got to do with this?"

"Nothing! I have no boy friend, I tell you!"

Oh, if there was only someone to tell her what to do and say. If she only knew for sure what had happened to Roy. They would never believe her if she told them she had been engaged to him before he disappeared. She might do him more harm by talking.

And she could not tell them she was a thief. If she did—and Roy came back and found it out—he might hate her. She couldn't stand that.

Rosalie was so weary with the strain and so confused in her tired mind that she began to cry again.

"Take her to headquarters," she heard through the pounding in her brain. "Maybe the murder squad can get her to open up."

The Theater

John McCormack, America's most popular tenor, is in Hollywood where he is making his first sound picture for Fox and has initiated himself into the movie fraternity by buying an expensive auto which he frequently drives on the left side of the street, as they do in Ireland. He has had to sing himself out of two tickets.

As a youth McCormack departed, in stock in Terre Haute, Ind. After several stock seasons she was in vaudeville, part of the time with her former husband, Lew Cody, from whom she was divorced. Her first film was "The Disciple" for Thomas Ince and after her "Aphrodite" success in 1919 she signed a five-year contract with Famous Players-Lasky at a salary that ranked among the five largest paid film stars at that time. She was with Valentino in "Moran of the Lady Letty" and with Conrad Nagel in "The Fool's Paradise". Probably her most successful film was "Flame of the Yukon", released in 1917. Her last was with Jack Holt in "The Lone Wolf", released May 11, 1924.

Hannen Swaffer, English critic, says of McCormack: "McCormack had a hard time of it in Bloomsbury. When he went to see 'The Vicar of Wakefield', in which he'd lost the part of Squire Thornhill because of his Irish accent, he had no money with which to buy a program. Yet, before America discovered him, he became one of the worst actors ever known, even on the Coven Garden stage, where he sang leading parts. "He used to stand with his back to the audience and look just a funny, fat man. Then America took his Irish smile to her heart and during the war McCormack made speeches against England in the United States and became an American as a protest against his British citizenship. "My article on McCormack stopped his first concert in 1920—he had already cancelled his Australian tour because the audience sang "God Save the King"—but before his return, four years later, we had all relented. Ever since, McCormack has been a London idol, as much as 650 pounds (approximately $3,250) for a few songs at the Mayfair Hotel and becoming, with the exception of Chaliapin, Paderewski and Kreisler, the only artist who can fill the Albert Hall. In America he has drawn over 2,000 pounds (about $10,000) in a night."

That proves it is quite a long cry from a ten dollar a week job in a chorus to a talkie film that will net him a quarter of a million dollars.

Considering the opportunities to extend one's audience and to be amply paid in addition, it is a wonder more of the concert singers have not been persuaded to make talking pictures. With movie ingenuity, it can be engineered so that the singer does the maximum of singing with the minimum of acting so that any shortcomings along this line would not greatly handicap the film, especially if the voice numbers were good.

Dorothy Dalton, star of Morris Gest's spectacle, "Aphrodite" and of many Famous Players and Thomas Ince films is coming back to the films. She will join her husband, Arthur Hammerstein in Hollywood soon and will play in his first movie production, "Bride 16". She deserted the celluloid after her marriage April 22, 1924 in Chicago.

Dorothy Dalton was born in Chicago and made her stage debut
